Re: A Safe Landing Requires Collaboration and Compromise
Submitted electronically

Dear Governor Dunleavy,

The people of Alaska sent you to Juneau to find solutions. Please head back to Juneau for the special session, where the infrastructure exists for all Alaskans to see and participate in the legislative process. Alaska needs you to talk directly with the legislators, listen to what they bring to the table, and find real compromise solutions.

To be truly "open for business," Alaska needs to continue the safe landing approach, cutting expenses gradually and reducing the risk of job losses. The vetoes made to the state budget will result in a drastic reduction of Alaska's entire economy and will cost businesses of Alaska real money in the coming months and years. A dividend in 2019 will not make up for those losses in either the short or long term, and essential government functions, like the capital budget, should not be held hostage over this or any other issue.

The Greater Fairbanks Chamber of Commerce urges you to work together across party lines and branches of government to find reasonable compromises on the current budget crisis.

The Greater Fairbanks Chamber of Commerce represents over 700 business members throughout Interior Alaska. We work to advocate for the best business environment, promote economic strength and growth for Interior Alaska, and to develop the resources and networks enterprising people use to share knowledge.

Sincerely,
