Chris Jensen, Co-Founder & COO

RightMesh

As Co-founder and COO of RightMesh, Chris spearheads the company's mission to "connect the next billion people and lift 100 million out of poverty" with a combination of mobile mesh networking, blockchain technology and cryptocurrency. Leveraging his strong understanding of finance markets gained from an earlier career in banking and brokerage, Chris has raised capital for many early stage companies, including several of his own. In his role as COO at RightMesh, Chris thrives on understanding the big picture and on moving the levers that drive the company forward. This includes financing, strategic partnerships, and corporate development. Chris holds a BSc (Honours) in Economics and History from Queen Mary University of London.
