The Importance of Aligning Personal Goals with Business Goals

Small Business Banking

Ensuring your business goals are aligned with your personal goals by understanding your core values is important in business as well as work/life balance. How do you articulate your core values and make them come alive for you, your employees, your clients, and your community? And how does this process can help you to deliver the outcomes that you desire for your business?

Join TD in learning how to align your core values with your business goals and your clients' goals.
