The donations to the fund will be used to help fund non-profit agencies working to meet the unprecedented demands for food, housing assistance, and medical and child care services. Agencies receiving the money are known for their ability to act quickly to respond during times of need. McComb identified a funding gap or lag for these organization While federal dollars may help some when they are available, the needs exist today and could easily outstrip federal dollar support. He will announce program details on how to contribute on April 9, 2020 at 11 a.m. at City Hall, on the steps by the entrance on the Staples Street side (outside of the Mayor's Office).
