Welcome to Your Kingsport Chamber’s Membership Directory. Let me begin with a few thank yous:

TO OUR KINGSPORT CHAMBER MEMBERS: Thank you for your investment and continued support of your Chamber.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS: This important “piece of gear” is not possible without your support.

TO THE KINGSPORT CHAMBER STAFF: Your efforts every day make Kingsport a better place.

TO THE MULTITUDE OF VOLUNTEERS THAT SERVE OUR CHAMBER AND OUR COMMUNITY: Your dedication and determination are exemplary.

TO THE KINGSPORT BOARD OF MAYOR AND ALDERMAN: Your progressive decisions continue to positively effect the lives of all citizens.

TO CHRIS MCCARTT AND EMPLOYEES OF THE CITY OF KINGSPORT: Your dedicated work ethic is visible every day.

TO THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY: Our community does not exist without you.

Again, THANK YOU. Kingsport is a better place because of you.

Now, let’s get back to the directory. We have once again partnered with VIPSEEN. Teaming with owner Angela Baker, Kirsten Hall and Morgan King who handled sales, Angelica Ares’ graphic design skills, your Chamber’s team who managed our efforts, many photographers and writers, a product of which all can be proud is now in your hands. Enjoy it. Share it.

I love my job. I get to work every day with amazing staff, volunteers and government officials who are all dedicated to improving Kingsport. There are countless others helping our citizens, often anonymously, to better their lives.

Former Mayor Ruth Montgomery once said, “This community revolves around our chamber of commerce” and former Mayor Jeanette Blazier echoed the same comment. Later in his years, Dennis Phillips said, “If you want it done, then ask the chamber” and Mayor John Clark often stated, “Let’s get the chamber involved. They make good things happen,” and Mayor Pat Shull has said “I continue to be amazed by all the productive and positive efforts led by our Chamber.” We take those compliments humbly and seriously. We promise not to let our community down.

The Kingsport Spirit – others above self – is alive and well. I am often asked “how can I help?” Keeping in mind that all of us are citizens of Kingsport and represent our city all day every day… here are a few suggestions:

• Be Loyal. Buy Local. Keep our dollars here.
• Bring it to Kingsport. If you attend meetings, conventions, events, somewhere other than Kingsport, call us. We want it here.
• Welcome visitors. Ask if they need help. Thank them for being here.
• Do something good for someone every day.
• Tell everyone that Kingsport is a wonderful place to live.
• If you see a piece of trash on the ground, pick it up.
• Volunteer.
• Choose to be positive.
• Call if you need me.

Respectfully,

Miles A. Burdine

THE SPIRIT OF KINGSPORT

Frequently, we are asked what motivating spirit has been most apparent in the building of this city of industries, schools, churches and homes. Were I to undertake to define the spirit underlying every step in the growth and development of Kingsport, from the days of its humblest beginnings until now, I could not avoid the assertion that the spirit, if it be a spirit, is one of mutual helpfulness and a willingness to submerge selfish interests beneath the individual effort to assure the greater good for the greater number.

Larry Estepp
President
Citizens Bank

Bank your own way.
Larry Estepp is an East Tennessean in his heart, soul and actions.

Larry Ray Estepp was born in West Chester, Pennsylvania, to Raymond and Lola Mae Estepp. The Estepps moved their then-small family to Limestone, Tennessee, where Raymond and Lola Mae had grown up. When Larry was three years old, the family’s next move was to Fall Branch, Tennessee, where Larry’s father had a new job at the Kingsport Glass Plant.

Larry, the second born of six children, grew up learning lifelong lessons of hard work, honesty, integrity and Christian values in that rural setting. As he studied, matured and gained professional work experience, he refined his abilities to become one of this region’s most dedicated and respected business and community leaders.

Larry’s banking and community accomplishments with First Tennessee Bank beginning in 1990, led to Citizens Bank hiring Larry in 2011 as executive vice president for commercial lending. In recognition of his banking expertise, leadership and “passion for community,” Larry was named the seventh president of family-owned Citizens Bank in March 2018.

On November 30, 2018, Larry Estepp – a former Kingsport Chamber president – received a highly coveted honor. During the annual State of Your Kingsport Chamber Holiday Breakfast, Larry became the 33rd recipient of the prestigious Lifetime Member Award. He joined the honor roll of previous award winners during the event held at the MeadowView Marriott Conference Resort & Convention Center.

GROWING UP IN FALL BRANCH
Located about 12 miles southwest of Kingsport, Fall Branch’s earliest settlers arrived in the 1780s. In 1854, the name of “Falls Branch” was adopted by the town when a post office was established. The “s” in Falls was later dropped. Fall Branch today has around 1,300 residents and is actually located in two counties – Washington and Greene.

The Estepp family established their home on two acres, which meant there were many chores to be done by young Larry, including carrying wood into the home, mowing grass, garden work and feeding livestock. Larry was a Boy Scout earning “The Rank of Life Scout” and especially enjoyed hunting, fishing and playing baseball.

Larry attended Fall Branch School through his sophomore year. In the autumn of 1971, several smaller area schools were consolidated into the new Daniel Boone High School, located in Gray. Larry was at Daniel Boone H.S. for two years until... graduating in 1973. During high school, Larry participated in three sports – baseball, basketball and track. He was a class officer and was voted by his senior class peers as “Most School Spirited.” His most important achievement was courting a girl named Teresa Good, who would later become his wife.

Larry continued his education graduating from Tusculum College (now University) with a Bachelor’s Degree in Organization Management. He later continued educational attainment by completing all requirements for the Graduate School of Banking at Louisiana State University. He also pursued banking education opportunities at the Darden Commercial Lending School at the University of Virginia, Rhodes College Executive Development Program and the Tennessee Bankers School.

PURSUING HIS BANKING CAREER
With his professional career entirely devoted to banking in the Tri-Cities region, Larry Estepp has developed a reputation for providing business services and loans based on his close work with customers who know, trust and respect him ... and his expertise.

“Larry’s extensive banking experience combined with his extraordinary record of community and civic leadership prepared him to become our bank’s president,” says Joe LaPorte III, Chairman and CEO of Citizens Bank. “He is a boots-on-the-ground type of banker who has successfully blended banking and community leadership.”

In March 2018, Larry was promoted to Citizens Bank president following the retirement of Bill Dudney, who Estepp considers a close personal and professional friend. Dudney was president of Citizens Bank for 23 years and continues to serve on Citizens’ Board of Directors.

Says Estepp of his association with his predecessor, “Working closely with Bill was a learning experience, but we also had great camaraderie ... and some fun along the way. In addition to banking, we’ve had many good times together including tailgating at a bunch of football games!”

A PASSION FOR BANKING AND CIVIC LEADERSHIP
It seems that Larry Estepp was born to provide extraordinary vision, passion and persistence to make East Tennessee an even more exceptional place to live, work, enjoy and raise families. Larry’s banking, civic and regional involvements include an astounding resume of leadership positions, accomplishments and recognitions.

During his time with the Kingsport Economic Development Board, Larry was instrumental in a number of key economic development initiatives, including the formation of NETWORKS Sullivan Partnership (which he chaired 2005-2007). NETWORKS is the economic development entity for Sullivan County and its communities of Bluff City, Bristol and Kingsport. NETWORKS was conceived by Larry and others to represent:

• All that the region has to offer
• Support the success of existing businesses
• Recruit worthy new companies and investment

In addition to NETWORKS, Larry also shared his economic development leadership abilities with the Kingsport Office of Small Business Development & Entrepreneurship (KOSBE) and the Holston Business Development Center.

“Larry is a tireless and devoted leader – both in terms of economic development and community service – that we all should emulate,” observed Bob Feathers, a past Kingsport Chamber chair. “His incredible work with the Kingsport Chamber ... and countless other organizations ... is unmatched.”

GIVING BACK TO HIS ALMA MATER
Larry served on the Tusculum University Board of Trustees for 12 years.

“Tusculum benefited from Larry’s business past acumen as a Trustee,” said Dr. James Hurley, former university president. “He has contributed significantly to Tusculum’s continuing development as a premier academic institution. We will always be grateful for his leadership and service.”

Tusculum University – with origins dating to the 1790s – today has a total enrollment of over 2,500.

LARRY’S POSITIVE INFLUENCE HAS BEEN FELT AND APPRECIATED
Larry Estepp’s commitment to important entities and worthwhile causes has made a positive impact throughout the Tri-Cities region. The following are some of the organizations with which Larry has been associated:

• “Be Loyal, Buy Local” Taskforce
• United Way of Greater Kingsport Campaign (Chair in 2006)
• Sullivan County Industrial Bond Board
• City of Kingsport Housing Team
• Kingsport Chamber Foundation Board
• Kingsport Community Foundation
• East Tennessee Foundation
• Washington County Schools Quest Foundation
• Holston Business Development Center Small Business Incubator
• Phipps Bend Industrial Park Board
• Greene County Partnership (Chair in 1995)
• Greene County Bond Board
• Greene County Fair (President 1996-2000)
• Boy Scouts of America Sequoyah Council
• Kingsport Economic Development Board
• Kingsport Housing and Redevelopment Authority (KHRA) Board
• And others

Larry has been honored and thanked with several prestigious recognitions over the past four decades, including:

• Kingsport Chamber Distinguished Leadership Award
• Gray Ruritan Man of the Year
• Washington County Ruritan of the Year

FAMILY AND FAITH COMES FIRST
Even with Larry Estepp’s considerable banking and civic achievements, it’s his sweetheart and wife of 43 years, Teresa, who is his #1. The Estepps have been blessed with three daughters (Erin, Kelli and Amy), two granddaughters (Adelyn and Landry) and two foster grandsons (Jaden and Leo).
Larry and Teresa are members of the Northeast Church of Christ, where Larry serves as a deacon.

The couple travels whenever practical, usually with other couples who are close friends and travel mates.

LESSONS FROM BANKING AND CIVIC SERVICE
"I have gained much more from my various experiences than I have given," states Larry.

So, what accomplishments are at the top of Larry’s list? He says there are two:

One: Developing and Teaching – “I enjoy the satisfaction of helping uplift employees’ personal qualities that lead to professional growth. I have been fortunate to identify, develop and coach bank employees who have potential to be really good bankers... some of whom have grown professionally to become leaders at other banks.”

Two: Customer Success – “The economic development aspect of helping a customer is also gratifying to me as a banker. I once worked with a start-up company owner who had just mapped out his first business plan,” explained Larry. “By supporting his dream and his God-given good business sense with timely loans and appropriate banking services, his company prospered ... and it eventually went public which provided a handsome financial gain.”

“He didn’t stop there,” continued Larry. “This customer started another enterprise and repeated his success. I felt honored and fulfilled to play a support role in this entrepreneur’s success.”

DESCRIBING LARRY ESTEPP
It is difficult to capture the character and leadership essence of a person in mere words. However, the following quote from Miles Burdine, Kingsport Chamber president and CEO, pays homage to Larry Estepp:

“Humble. Kind. Smart. Dedicated. Loyal. Giving. Respected. Admired. Servant Leader. These are just a few of the many words I could use to describe Larry Estepp. For years, Larry has given of his time, talents and heart to make this a great community ... and he has done so with a gentle, generous and selfless spirit.”

Along with the Lifetime Member Award, Larry will receive a complimentary lifetime membership in the Kingsport Chamber.

Burdine added, “This is a much-deserved honor and we are extremely pleased to present it to Larry Estepp.”

ABOUT CITIZENS BANK
Larry Estepp’s office is located in the historic Clinchfield Railroad Station, built in 1905, now Citizens Bank’s Kingsport downtown office. In many ways, this iconic structure symbolizes Citizens Bank’s commitment to the best in community banking in East Tennessee. The bank was established in 1934, coming out of the Great Depression, and was built on a solid foundation laid by its founders. As the bank grew, it became a purchase target by a much bigger bank and was sold in 1972. However, the bank – led by "Papa Joe" Laporte – was repurchased by local interests in 1983. The bank, just as the historic train station, has demonstrated unusual resilience.

Today, Citizens Bank is stronger than ever and helps improve the financial standing of individuals, families, businesses, institutions and communities. Family-owned for over three decades, Citizens Bank is among the 25 largest Tennessee-based banks with assets of $871 million, 14 banking offices and over 200 employees. Larry has also helped Citizens Bank grow into a top 50 SBA lender in the nation.

Citizens Bank has proven that it is both durable and innovative and celebrated its 85th anniversary this past November!
The Kingsport Chamber honored longtime Kingsport business and community leader Don Royston with its prestigious Lifetime Member Award during its State of Your Kingsport Chamber Holiday Breakfast in November 2019 at the MeadowView Marriott Conference Resort & Convention Center.

A past Kingsport Chamber president, Royston recently retired from the full-time practice of public accounting with Brown Edwards & Company.

The award’s thirty-fifth recipient, Royston is best known for serving as Santa Claus on the Santa Train.

“Lifetime achievement awards are to honor the best of the best and Don Royston most certainly falls into that illustrious group,” said Lori Arnold, Kingsport Chamber chair and director of finance with GSM. “It is a way for the Kingsport Chamber to award such outstanding vision, dedication and commitment to the Chamber and the city. After working under Don Royston for ten years, I have seen him first hand in his everyday commitment to be a leader in Kingsport. What an honor to present to someone who has been a mentor and a true example of a lifetime member. He is a true gentleman that goes above and beyond to do so much for others that only Santa would know.”

“Don Royston is one of the best leaders with whom I have worked during my more than 25 years at the Kingsport Chamber,” said Miles Burdine, Kingsport Chamber president and CEO. “He is the epitome of a servant leader…kind, caring, gracious and beyond generous. Beyond his business leadership and the time and effort he has given to this organization and community, Don’s big heart and philanthropic spirit have touched countless lives and made a profound difference for so many people. Don Royston truly embodies the spirit of Santa Claus and he is so deserving of this honor.”

The Kingsport Chamber Lifetime Member Award goes to an individual who has made an enormous contribution to the Kingsport Chamber and the community throughout his or her lifetime.

With the award, Royston will receive complimentary membership to the Kingsport Chamber for his life.

WHO IS DON ROYSTON?
A native of Bristol, Tenn., Don Royston graduated from Tennessee High School and East Tennessee State University.

A certified public accountant, Royston began his career with Dent K. Burk Associates in downtown Kingsport in Royston has held a number of leadership roles and served on numerous boards and committees in the community. He devoted more than 30 years of his time to the Kingsport Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors and Kingsport Chamber Foundation Board of Directors, where he has served as president and treasurer for both boards. In addition, he served as chair of the Kingsport Convention and Visitors Bureau, now known as Visit Kingsport.

During his time as Kingsport Chamber president in 1991, Royston placed a major emphasis on the development of small business, including creating the organization’s Small Business Council, which later grew into the Kingsport Office of Small Business Development and Entrepreneurship (KOSBE).

For the past 21 years, Royston has served as Santa Claus aboard the Santa Train, a position he considers one of his favorites.

Royston also created the Santa Train Scholarship, a four-year, $5,000 scholarship given to a graduating high school senior along the 110-mile Santa Train route. To date, more than $100,000 has been rewarded to students seeking a college education. He also commissioned the painting of the Santa Train print in 1992 to sell and raise funds for the scholarship.

Some of the other many organizations for which Royston has offered his time and talents include: Holston Valley Medical Center; Kingsport College Foundation; Kingsport Inventor Center; Kingsport Homeless Ministry; Appalachian Miles for Smiles; Body and Soul Ministries; Kingsport Kiwanis Club; Kingsport Senior Center; Friends of Warriors Path State Park; Boundless Playground; Junior Achievement; Tri-Cities Christian Schools; and Safe House.

Royston has also been actively involved with a number of professional affiliations and accounting organizations, including the Tennessee Society of Certified Public Accountants; Appalachian Chapter of the Tennessee Society of Certified Public Accountants; AICPA Technical Standards Review Board and National Governing Council; East Tennessee State Department of Accountancy Advisory Board; Tennessee State Board of Accountancy; and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

He has also been involved with the Tennessee Baptist Association, Microloans of Belize, the United States Pony Club, and served as an Eagle Scout and scout master in Bristol.

Royston has been recognized on numerous occasions for his professional work and community service, including the Tennessee Society of Certified Public Accountants Public Service award; Kingsport Jaycees Kingsport Outstanding Man of the Year; Kingsport Jaycees Tennessee Outstanding Man of the Year; Ed Moore Santa Train Service award; and the Art Roper Kiwanian of the Year award.

Royston and his wife, Vicki, have two children, Audrey and Rachael, and have five grandchildren.

They are members of Colonial Heights Baptist Church.

Demographics stories typically garner little public attention. But on Dec. 29, 2010, the Pew Research Center grabbed the nation’s attention with these two sentences: “As the year 2011 begins, the oldest member of the Baby Boom generation will celebrate their 65th birthday. In fact, on that day and every other day for the next 19 years, 10,000 Baby Boomers will reach the age of 65.”

Since then, the graying of America has taken on a new awareness and realization that because Baby Boomers lead the way, they redefine just about everything to do with the perception of aging. And Kingsport stands on the crest of this demographic tsunami. The city’s median age places its population a little more than six years senior to the national median.

As of 2019, six primary generations unevenly divide Kingsport’s population.

The elders make up the “Silent Generation,” called the Silents because they were too young to fight in World War II but too old for the sexual revolution. The youngest Silents are around age 74 and account for almost 11 percent of Kingsport’s population. However, some members of the Greatest Generation remain in the city. They are now in their mid-90s with ranks rapidly declining.

Baby Boomers make up almost 25 percent of the local population. The children of the Greatest Generation have altered everything from the economy and politics to culture as they moved from their heydays to redefining retirement today. Boomers reject the moniker of “seniors,” but no one has devised a better term.

KingsportChamber.org
Demographics

Generation X accounts for a little more than 13 percent of the local economy. They are mostly children of the Silents. Sandwiched between the later Baby Boomer and millennial generations, Gen Xers inherited the good, the bad, and the ugly of today’s economy from the Boomers with significantly fewer numbers to shoulder economic burdens.

Millennials account for 23 percent of the Kingsport population. While they almost equal in numbers with their Boomer parents, they did not inherit an economy where showing up comprised a big part of success. They were weaned on the Great Recession and remain saddled with large student debt loads. They’re making their economic and political marks, but millennials still lurk in the shadows of the Boomers.

Generation Z notably makes up Kingsport’s largest population component at 29 percent of the total figure. Generation Z ranges from those in their early 20s and to the youngest under age five. In Kingsport, nearly half are under age 10. In many ways, Gen Zers remain question marks. They exert significant influence on consumer spending, mainly within the spending patterns one might expect from teens and those in their early 20s, and through the toy, clothing, and food industries. However, most remain too young for employment and thus, too hard to track fiscally.

On the other hand, economic sectors might easily be tracked. Many who live more than 75 miles outside Kingsport think manufacturing dominates the city. While that might have once been the case, the Model City has reinvented and continues to reinvent itself from a hard-hat economy to a scrubs and service economy.

The largest employment segments in Kingsport are the educational services and health care and social services categories. Employment in those sectors accounts for almost one-in-four workers, 24.2 percent of jobs.

Manufacturing employment takes the second position with 15.4 percent of jobs while retail trade retains a strong third position comprising 13.3 percent of jobs.

Kingsport’s numbers point to a population and economy older than the national norm, though elders do not dominate the population mix. They do, however, exert outsized influence. The city enjoys in migration, as outsiders fancy the region’s retirement, lifestyle, and outdoor recreation opportunities. Though the city faces the same negative natural population growth as around one third of the nation’s counties, those moving to Kingsport keep its population stable.

From the earliest days of pre-K to the final days of higher education, Kingsport and neighboring communities remain committed to serving students with quality education. Two public school districts and 10 private institutions contribute to the learning and development of our city’s future leaders. The Kingsport City Schools system serves more than 7,000 students in grades pre-K through 12, and Sullivan County Schools serve around 10,000 students in pre-K through 12.

Additionally, several institutions of higher education conduct classes in Kingsport, offering courses through resources from Northeast State Community College, King University, Lincoln Memorial University, and East Tennessee State University. Regionally, five other colleges and universities support educational growth, industry, and the economy.

As a haven for industry, science, and technology, Kingsport launched an educational program through a partnership with Eastman in Education. STREAMWORKS allows students grades K-12 to explore science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) skills through project-based mentoring. The program hosts workshops and events related to robotics, drone use, and Lego League building.

No matter their ages or interest, students find their strengths through Kingsport’s schools and programs.

Kingsport city officials, the Kingsport Chamber, and their economic development partners, are working hard to create an environment that is necessary for industrial growth within the region. The goals are clear and the plan to reach those goals is solid. New community and educational alliances, which have been established during recent years, are making a difference in how the city is able to market itself for new opportunities.
CHOOSE THE RIGHT PEOPLE TO MARKET
KINGSPORT

The best advocates for success are the people who have a vested interest in the task at hand. In other words, if you live in Kingsport, what happens at home is important. During 2019, Kingsport native Pat Shull was elected by a 43% vote to take the reigns as the new Mayor of Kingsport and began his term on July 1st. A graduate of Dobyns-Bennett High School and the University of Tennessee, Shull also served as a 2nd Lieutenant in the United States Army. Mayor Shull retired from his time in the military as a Colonel in 2003 and returned to his hometown to begin two businesses. Shull was a part of the Sullivan County Commission before taking his new position.

In addition to a new Mayor to lead the city, on January 19, 2019, Bill Lee was sworn in as the 50th governor of the state of Tennessee. Following an inaugural worship service at the Grand Old Opry, Governor Lee took his place in the capitol and in history. As a seventh generation Tennessean, Lee has strong roots and relationship to the communities and people that run through the veins of Tennessee. Gov. Lee graduated from Auburn University before returning to his home of Franklin to join the family business. The focus on businesses and culture comes to the forefront in the position Gov. Lee has proudly taken.

Perhaps one of the best examples of forward-thinking in regional economic development is NETWORKS – Sullivan Partnership. NETWORKS act as a regional economic development entity working with both consulting agencies and site developers from across the country to bring new industry to the cities of Kingsport, Bristol and Bluff City, as well as the remainder of Sullivan County. They also market the Phipps Bend Industrial Park as a joint effort between Kingsport and Hawkins County.

In 2019, Clay Walker, NETWORKS CEO, cited 3,000 new jobs announced over the past five years, with private capital investment of nearly $651 million and just below $18 million in grants collected for site development. In 2017, Walker was selected as one of North America’s Top 50 Economic Developers by Consultant Connect, a site location consultant consortium designed to bridge the gap between economic developers and site consultants. Walker’s inclusion on this prestigious list is based on excellent practices, innovation and success in building the communities he serves. For further information about NETWORKS Sullivan Partnership, visit its website at networkstn.com.
WORKFORCE PREPAREDNESS: BE READY TO GET THE JOB

Without a well-trained workforce, ready for the demands of the 21st century, attracting new industry is virtually impossible. That’s why Kingsport officials are so excited to see a continuation of collaborative efforts between local high schools, colleges and businesses in the community.

After breaking ground in 2018, Dobyns-Bennett High School opened its brand-new Regional Science and Technology Center in 2019 to further the education and learning for its students. A $23 million dollar investment, the impressive three-story 70,000-square-foot facility serves as the new entrance to the High School and includes 18 new classrooms/labs, two teaching work spaces, six student work spaces, one TEAL (Technology Enhanced active learning) lab, one large research lab, four small research labs, a student café, an atrium, outside spaces for robotics and environmental learning, and administrative offices. The expansion was funded by proceeds from a $140 million countywide bond as part of the Together for Tomorrow campaign.

The Kingsport Higher Education Program is one that helps individuals grow on personal and professional levels every year. With facilities such as the Regional Center for Health Professionals (RCHP), Regional Center for Advanced Manufacturing (RCAM) and Regional Center for Applied Technology (RCAT), students can be prepared for the workforce right out of school and bring those skills acquired to their success.

Planes, Trains and Automobiles; Location Matters

Providing travel accommodations in many different ways Kingsport is uniquely positioned for unprecedented access to travel and transport methods. The city sits at the crossroads of Interstate 81 and Interstate 26; two major Interstate highway systems that ultimately link Northeast Tennessee to more than 70 percent population within a day’s drive. Tri-Cities Airport (TRI), located just minutes away from Kingsport, is a full-service commercial airport offering non-stop flights to four hubs (Atlanta, Charlotte, Dallas, Orlando and Tampa/St. Pete-Clearwater) on Allegiant, American and Delta. Additionally, TRI manages an aggressive Air Cargo program, administers Foreign Trade Zone 204, supports and promotes U.S. Customs Port 2027 and provides trade development assistance. Kingsport also has direct railway access through both CSX and Norfolk Southern. In addition to travel by air and track, Kingsport offers a special form of transportation to its community by way of the Kingsport Area Transit Service (KATS). This very important system has been a staple in the area since 1995. Since then, it has only grown and developed into something extremely helpful and needed. Due to this fact, on June 10, 2019, KATS opened their newest facility at 900 East Main Street in downtown Kingsport. Offering six new routes, including travel to Colonial Heights and a stop at the Food City on Moreland Drive, the new routes will provide travel to additional passengers that utilize the transportation.

The Kingsport Aquatic Center, which opened in 2013, quickly became a year-round favorite among local citizens and out-of-town guests. The 46,000-square foot indoor facility remains open throughout the year and features the region’s only indoor Olympic-size pool. Outside, a water playground allows for play while others enjoy a 900-foot lazy river. Also, the Kingsport Aquatic Center added a brand new 2,700-foot outdoor pool, shaded pavilion area and additional outdoor seating.

According to the American Pet Products Association, more than half of all U.S. households own a pet. In Kingsport, furry friends can be considered furry family, and new initiatives cater to finding comfortable homes for canines, felines, and more.

Petworks Kingsport Animal Services, formerly SBK Animal Control Center broke ground on a new, $3.6 million animal shelter facility. The new facility is set to open in the Fall of 2020.

The 17,000-square-foot adoption facility will house an increasing population of pets in need with room for 180 animals, a dog park, and animal care and training spaces. More space and resources will allow Petworks to better maintain a no-kill goal, ensuring adoptable pets live to receive love community members have to offer.

While work continues toward Petworks’ initiatives, other areas in Kingsport like the Dogwood Park allow family pets to play and roam. The Greenbelt and Warriors Path State Park also provide trail spaces for pets to walk on leashes.

Cats or dogs, reptiles or birds, Kingsport families embrace them as family and are happy to give them homes.
DOGWOOD PARK

This off-leash, membership-only community dog park sits adjacent to Hunter Wright Stadium, the home of the Kingsport Mets. With 3-acres total to roam and play, large dogs find fun on a designated 2.5 acres while smaller/older dogs may roam a half acre of their own. For safety, the park features keyless entry and a 6-foot high chain link fence.

Kingsport’s housing market enjoyed a banner year in 2019, and it offers an excellent lens to focus on the current status.

The city made a significant increase in the single-family and townhome resale market. The new home market slogged through the wettest year on record with some noteworthy advances, and the multi-family market continues to add inventory – especially luxury apartments like the new Town Park Lofts off Clinchfield Street.

Thanks to flippers and remodelers, the trend of adding a fresh, updated look to the “good bones” of many of Kingsport’s older custom homes continues. Kingsport also retains an AARP Livable Community designation. And, Kingsport is a city where it’s still cheaper to buy a home than rent, which goes hand-in-hand with the city’s affordable cost of living status.

From a regional housing market perspective, Kingsport was the only city in the Northeast Tennessee Association of Realtors’ (NETAR) 11-county area where single-family resales exceeded their 2017 annual market share for 12 straight months. Market share combined with sales and price data shows Kingsport grows a vibrant and competitive housing market.

The Model City’s single-family home resales grew 19.2 percent from the previous year, and the average sales price appreciated $7,259. Although the upward arc of home prices in 2018 and 2017 took a bite out of the city’s home affordability status, Kingsport sits in one of the only five Tennessee counties in Attom Data Solutions Home Price Index where an average wage earner has the buying power to purchase a median-priced home. NETAR President Karen Randolph said because inventory remains very tight, availability poses more of a challenge than affordability.

Townhome and condominiums resales were not as vigorous as single-family sales, but still grew. Sales increased 7.4 percent, and the average sales price was $4,610 better than the previous year for a 3.5 percent increase.

New home permits were down from 2017, but only by 10. For the past four years, Kingsport has added between 75 to 90 new homes a year – many of them custom homes. The big news in the new home market: the median price dropped $68,128 from the previous year.

Two primary sources drove the decrease. Millennials and retiring Baby Boomers were in the market for the same product – smaller, single-level homes on smaller lots. The other driver was new building codes, increased material costs, and a labor shortage that added an average of $10,000 to the average price of a new home. Builders adjusted their price point to remain competitive.

The year proved fruitful for the multi-family luxury apartment home market. New developments include Overlook at Indian Trail, Retreat at MeadowView, Town Park Lofts Apartments and the Villas at River Bend. Property managers for these properties say the community has been very welcoming and the response to their product is gratifying. At the same time, many of the city’s existing apartment complexes are renovating to compete with the new inventory coming on the market.

Kingsport remains predominately a home owner’s city. Owners comprise 62 percent of the occupied housing units while renters hold a 38 percent share. Almost half of the owners are mortgage free and from 26 to 31 percent of those with mortgages – depending on the zip code – are equity rich. That means the owners have a 50 percent or more loan to value position.

Given current conditions, the short-term outlook for Kingsport’s housing market is more of the same: varied, stable, and affordable.

With a relatively temperate climate, affordable housing, walkability, active adult communities, and plenty of outdoor spaces for leisure and golf in a low-tax state, Kingsport remains an attractive place to retire and begin new adventures. The AARP Age-Friendly Community Network named the city its first member because of Kingsport’s commitment to environmental, economic, and social factors influencing the health and prosperity of older adults.

Is it finally time to travel with family? Tri-Cities Airport lies around 20 miles away.

Want to enjoy your days on the golf course? More than 20 golf courses sit within 20 miles of the city, some of the most lauded right here in Kingsport.

Worried about health in the coming years? Ballad Health operates 21 hospitals in the region with more than 815 physicians. Want to simply enjoy your retirement years? Kingsport remains buzzing with live music downtown, the Racks by the Tracks festival, Fun Fest, Symphony of the Mountains concerts, Kingsport Ballet performances, Kingsport Theatre Guild shows, business and restaurant growth, and opportunities to enjoy nature at locations like Bays Mountain Park & Planetarium and Warriors Path State Park.

Living options prove affordable and accommodating. Kingsport’s median home value hovers around $135,000 and the cost of living falls below the national average at 87.20. For those seeking a community where social and care needs may be met, a number of independent and assisted care communities allow older adults and families to relax.

In June 2019, The Blake at Kingsport, a new community off Fort Henry Drive, placed furniture in assisted living and memory care suites with varying floor plans. The community offers 24-hour nursing staff, chef-prepared meals served restaurant-style, concierge services to assist transportation and communication needs, a salon, activity rooms, movie room, physical therapy clinic, and more. Residents live in 118 apartments, 70 dedicated to assisted living and 48 devoted to the memory care community.

While many want to spend their retirement years relaxing, others find they still have work to do. If your retirement ambition is to start a small business or enterprise of your own, the Kingsport Office of Small Business Development & Entrepreneurship (KOSBE) stands ready to help. KOSBE offers assistance in forming businesses, writing business plans, reviewing plans, obtaining capital for start-up, aiding with government contract pursuits, and analyzing finances. With KOSBE’s help, you can put your years of experience and passions to use in ways meaningful to you and the Kingsport community.

The Pew Research Center once noted that 10,000 Baby Boomers will reach age 65 every day until 2030. Kingsport maintains a vision of making this region a great place to retire for such individuals and many more – to 2030 and beyond.

Adding new breweries and distilleries to wash down all Kingsport already has on its loaded plate, the Model City has developed a baseline of beers, ciders, craft brews, and heritage moonshine in recent history. No matter the size of your business, if you want to grow, you have to connect. You have to know who to reach, and how to reach them.

That’s where we come in. Your Future is here.

Be everywhere - across all screens, where your customers are watching in TriCities.

From the moment you got the idea for your business, you’ve never stopped asking what’s next.
Taking time off from busy schedules and hectic lives for a little window shopping downtown, uptown, and all around provides not only a chance to find those one-of-a-kind pieces for unique tastes, but a chance to contribute to a growing economy.

Downtown, the boutique and shop owners and workers are friendly and as unique as the items on your shopping list. From specialty crafts, clothing, and antique finds to kitchen finds and artisan olive oil, Kingsport bursts with modern charms suited to a historic area where shopping is more than just a checkout – it’s a social event.

In virtually every corner of the Model City, one finds model businesses tailored to any need or desire. From the young and old to the tall and skinny, interior home designer to the exterior home builder, Kingsport offers a host of clothier services, home goods, screen printing, athletic gear, games, movies, instruments, and crafts to outfit all lives.

Got a list? No need to check it twice. With hundreds of businesses large and small, Kingsport has the shopping opportunities to scratch off all on your wish list.

Healthcare continues to dominate news across the nation, and the Tri-Cities region makes no exception. With expansion and changes frequently occurring, healthcare makes headlines as physicians, administrators, nurses, researchers, and therapists work to innovate for the future, always seeking to improve quality of life. The area benefits from a large network of hospitals, independent practices, dentists and orthodontists, non-traditional resources, and educational resources.

Tied to healthcare, wellness initiatives continually spring up in Kingsport and the surrounding area, with gyms, fitness centers, parks, and organizations like Healthy Kingsport promoting activity, balanced diets, and other healthy habits to ensure quality of life grows alongside advancing medicine.

No matter your age, race, gender, or socioeconomic status, those working and researching at Kingsport’s myriad health and wellness resources seek to make your life as full as possible.

IT BEGINS WITH EDUCATION

In Kingsport, students can take courses at the Regional Center for Health Professions (300 West Main Street) administered by Northeast State Community College. Courses include instruction in Cardiovascular Technology, Emergency Medical Technology, Lab Technologies, Paramedic work, Dental Assisting, and associate degree preparation in Nursing.

In neighboring Johnson City – around 25 miles away – students study at the East Tennessee State University Quillen College of Medicine, Bill Gatton College of Pharmacy, and the ETSU College of Nursing. Those students experience on-the-job training sessions and residency opportunities to best prepare them for their fields, earning national recognition for their rural focus and interdisciplinary studies. King University and Milligan College also train nurses to work in health systems like Ballad Health and Holston Medical Group through four-year nursing programs.

With doctors, pharmacists, and nurses trained right here in the Appalachian Highlands region, medical professionals understand area needs, challenges, and goals to better assist community members.

COMING TOGETHER THROUGH COMMITMENT

Ballad Health officially formed in 2018 as a merger between Mountain States Health Alliance and Wellmont Health System. When forming the new system, officials wanted to ensure they met community needs and committed to serving the people. Regional citizens said they most wanted to receive from providers who really listen; thus, Ballad Health got its name. A ballad is a song that tells a story, and Ballad Health seeks to listen to the community’s needs – to the community’s stories.

The system operates 21 hospitals in 29 counties of Northeast Tennessee, Southwest Virginia, Northwest North Carolina, and Southeast Kentucky. Those facilities include: three tertiary medical centers, a dedicated children’s hospital, community hospitals, three critical access hospitals, a behavioral health hospital, an addiction treatment facility, long-term care facilities, home care and hospice services, retail pharmacies, outpatient services, and a comprehensive medical management corporation.

CONTINUING QUALITY CARE

Holston Medical Group (HMG), a multi-specialty, physician-owned group, has operated for more than 40 years in Northeast Tennessee and Southwest Virginia. The large independent network serves the community through family and primary care, specialized practices, an out-patient surgery center, and an emergency walk-in clinic. Through expansive connections, primary care physicians and specialists connect to provide comprehensive care.

In addition to primary care and pediatric services, HMG operates a number of specialty practices including, but not limited to, dermatology, gastroenterology, general surgery, orthopedics, podiatry, obstetrics & gynecology, and allergy & asthma services and set to open a new surgery center in 2020.

For more information about HMG, its services, initiatives, and policies, visit holstonmedicalgroup.com.

Mountain Region Family Medicine, P.C.

For the past twenty-nine years, Mountain Region Family Medicine (MRFM) has been a staple in healthcare and leader in a movement that encompasses the Tri-Cities region. The professionalism and in-depth medical expertise only contributes to and enhances the care and experience family’s will count on with Mountain Region Family Medicine.

Physician-owned and fiercely independent, Mountain Region Family Medicine is separate from Ballad Health and any other healthcare system. In addition to the expert healthcare and immense pride within the practice, Mountain Region Family Medicine boasts a high national ranking for quality with insurance payer programs containing a strong case management department. Because of this, patients can be assured they are receiving the utmost care and respect.

State of Franklin Healthcare Associates is a physician-owned and operated medical group with its headquarters in Johnson City, Tennessee. Since its founding in 1998, SoFHA has provided state-of-the-art primary healthcare services to patients of all ages within the region. SoFHA continues to grow and is now providing
HELPING ALL TO LIVE HEALTHY LIVES

A number of organizations and facilities in Kingsport work to keep citizens healthy and well. Whether you need assistance with nutrition, physical activity, or kicking unhealthy habits like smoking, diverse businesses, nonprofits, and training centers partner to promote your health.

Healthy Kingsport is a program of your Kingsport Chamber dedicated to promoting wellness, enhancing infrastructure to best suit the area, and influencing policy to create positive impact. The organization works on a collective impact model, meaning the backbone organization (Healthy Kingsport) drives the initiatives of a network of organizations with a common agenda, communication, and mutually reinforcing initiatives. Healthy Kingsport has worked to establish smoke-free campuses across Sullivan County in an effort to combat adult tobacco use, which is higher than the national average at 26 percent – more than a quarter of adults. The organization also promotes nutrition habits and exercise to address Sullivan County’s overweight/obese population, which accounts for nearly 73 percent of the adult population in the area.

For more information, visit healthykingsport.org.

Friends in Need is another nonprofit organization committed to helping this region’s wellness initiatives. Friends in need provides low to no cost health and dental care to employed uninsured residents and their families in Sullivan County (and elsewhere in the region). When the organization formed in 1995, members served around 500 patients. In 2019, organizers expect nearly 6,700 patient encounters. Friends in Need helps patients receive primary care, physicals, minor surgeries, pharmaceutical services, referrals to specialists, dental X-rays, exams, fillings, crowns, and more.

To learn more, visit friendsinneed.org.

PROMOTING PHYSICAL FITNESS

In addition to Healthy Kingsport’s initiatives and directives, a number of places offer ample opportunity for physical activity. If you like to walk or hike, the Kingsport Greenbelt, Warriors Path State Park, and Bays Mountain Park & Planetarium offer many miles to roam, explore, and exercise. If you enjoy swimming, take a dip at the Kingsport Aquatic Center. If you simply want to hop on a treadmill, head to any of Kingsport’s fitness centers:

- CrossFit RailBirds
- Exalt Gym
- GBC Wellness Center
- Greater Kingsport Family YMCA
- Kingsport Fitness and Tanning
- Ridgefields Golf and Athletic Club

The Greenbelt (kingsportgreenbelt.com) remains a unique way to walk the city. Stretching nearly nine miles from East to West, the Greenbelt walking trail takes citizens through neighborhoods, commercial districts, downtown, and to other parks where they may exercise and enjoy the outdoors.

The Kingsport Aquatic Center (swimkingsport.com) allows patrons to engage with one of the healthiest of all exercises: swimming. The 46,000-square foot indoor facility features three multi-purpose heated pools for instruction and exercise, including the region’s only indoor Olympic size pool. Outside, from Memorial Day to Labor Day, kids and adults alike can skip traditional swimming for activity on two water slides and a water playground before getting some rest in the 900-foot lazy river and a brand new 2,700 foot pool.
A few years ago, Pew Research Center examined the way religion influences the daily lives of the devout. Researchers discovered what many people of faith already know: highly religious individuals are more engaged with their extended families, more likely to volunteer, more involved with their communities, and generally happier with the way things are going in their lives.

With that notion, Kingsport must be a happy place.

With roughly 170 houses of worship dotting Kingsport’s landscape, including the singular Church Circle in the heart of the city, it appears as if a place of worship stands on every corner. From Apostolic, Catholic and Baptist churches to Methodist, Episcopal, Presbyterian, and more, the Model City remains a model of faith for all denominations and religions.

Regardless of religious beliefs, Kingsport remains community first, where local people look after one another with a religious backbone at the core. From church-sponsored events at the Farmer’s Market downtown to missionary endeavors extending far beyond the city, state, and country, Kingsport’s places of worship serve all people.

If you’re new to the area, there is not time like the present to find a place of worship to suit you best. If you’re a long-time resident, you already know: the Greater Kingsport area is the place for faiths to worship in peace and harmony.

Like the stroke of a paintbrush splashed across a vibrant canvas, the arts and culture scene in Kingsport colors the community.

From a performing arts center and host of historical attractions to two ballet groups, Downtown concerts and a professional symphony, Kingsport has myriad nationally recognized and little-known attractions that natives cannot keep secret for long. As part of the diversity and inclusion initiative, Kingsport hosted the 2nd Annual Tri-Pride Parade.

Roving art exhibits round about town as the Kingsport Carousel, a renovated 1956 Allen Herschell Carousel, spins in the Pal’s Roundhouse at 350 Clinchfield Street. Venture through the Sculpture Walk in Downtown Kingsport on the way to venues like the Lamplight Theatre and more, keeping up with goings-on through the Kingsport Office of Cultural Arts.

The Office of Cultural Arts, a department of the City of Kingsport, coordinates connections between the public and the creative community. The administrative office supports economic development through the arts and manages an annual performing arts series. Its website, EngageKingsport.com, includes a comprehensive regional event calendar sure to provide those in the Kingsport area with plenty to see, engage, and create.

Historical sites like Allandale Mansion, Exchange Place, and Netherland Inn serve as event venues and tour destinations to explore Kingsport’s past while serving community needs of the future. The orchestra began as a civic orchestra known as the Kingsport Symphony Orchestra in 1946, adding a youth orchestra to its ranks in 1965. In 2003, the orchestra merged with the Bristol Concert Choir to emerge as the Symphony of the Mountains and Voices of the Mountains.

Under the direction of Cornelia Laemmli Orth, the orchestra of more than 70 professional musicians performs across Northeast Tennessee, Southwest Virginia, and Western North Carolina.

Miracle Field

City of Kingsport leaders joined local and state dignitaries, sponsors, officials from Visit Kingsport and the Kingsport Chamber, and several special needs children to commemorate the opening of the venue, the first Miracle League complex in the Appalachian Highlands.
With more than 917 auto suppliers and the second lowest tax burden in the nation, Tennessee motors past competition in the South. In no small feat, Sullivan County pulls its own weight in this state’s massive industry, a business that rolls out a new automobile every 20 seconds, generating about $12 billion in annual tax revenue.

The area’s 13 new and 22 used car dealers contribute to the annual tax base, selling nearly $17 billion in automobiles annually, or roughly 20 percent of the total retail sales in the state.

“It’s not easy, but we hustle,” John Hachem of Toyota of Kingsport said.

In other words, a lot of hard work contributes to Tennessee’s initiatives, earning the title “Car Country, USA” from commercialappeal.com. There’s no wonder why, for the fourth year running, Tennessee held on to the No. 1 state spot in the nation for automotive manufacturing strength by Business Facilities, a publication that ranks annual national economic development.

Across Sullivan County, the workforce takes advantage. More than 3,500 jobs generate from the Sullivan County automotive market in all arenas including manufacturing motor vehicle bodies, steering, and suspension components; brake and engine manufacturing; sales; servicing; mechanical repairs and adjustments; body art engineering; and other peripheral automotive work.

The local car industry appears to be the strongest it has ever been. In fact, Sullivan County’s labor shed skyrocketed in growth in many of these sectors between 2011-2016, the most recent data available, according to NETWORKS Sullivan Partnership, an economic development organization for Sullivan County and its communities of Bluff City, Bristol, and Kingsport.
In some cases, those growth figures constitute more than 100 percent surges in this five-year span, feats of which Sullivan County remains proud.

THOSE FIGURES INCLUDE:

- 183 percent growth in Motor Vehicle Gasoline Engine and Engine Parts Manufacturing
- 102 percent growth in Motor Vehicle Brake Manufacturing
- 38 percent growth in Motor Vehicle Steering and Suspension Components Manufacturing
- 24 percent growth in Motor Vehicle Body Manufacturing

When people think of their cars, they must understand not only the impact Sullivan County has on the state and national market, but how those markets drive the local economy.

Sullivan County alone boasts an average employment 14 times the U.S. average for those working in manufacturing motor vehicle steering and suspension components; seven times the U.S. average of those employed in vehicle gasoline engine and engine parts manufacturing; five times the U.S. average employed in body manufacturing; and three times the U.S. average employed in brake manufacturing.

In part, this success results from Sullivan County's geographical location, NETWORKS indicated, noting 11 automotive equipment manufacturers sit within 300 miles of this area.

“We have great accessibility to other parts of the U.S. that you don’t see anywhere else,” NETWORKS stated. “That’s a real advantage.”

Sullivan County boasts a prepared workforce with highly skilled and technical jobs from training centers like the Pal Barger Regional Center for Advanced Manufacturing anchored on Center Street in Kingsport.

“Do you want to hire someone and train them or hire someone who is already trained or can easily be trained?” NETWORKS asked. “We’re even exposing elementary kids to manufacturing. It’s not the dirty black smoke type of job it used to be. It’s so different now. It’s a huge differentiating factor.”

Together, Sullivan County, Kingsport, and its employees will continue to push this history forward.

“We have roots in manufacturing here,” stated NETWORKS. “We’re in a position to keep this going for generations.”

Kingsport unveiled a new sentinel at the Kingsport Veterans Memorial on Fort Henry Drive. Dedicated on Memorial Day, the 6-foot-4 bronze statue, which serves as a universal representation of all U.S. military branches, reminds citizens of local service members’ commitment to defending the country’s values and people as they guard against threats to democracy. Artist Val Lyle of Bristol, Tennessee, modeled the statue on a local active-duty U.S. military member, working with the Armed Forces Reserve Center in Gray, Tennessee, to accurately replicate equipment recently issued to military personnel in Afghanistan and Iraq.

The sentinel statue came to life as the result of an initial donation from retired U.S. Navy Capt. Herbert V. Ladley and his family. Multiple service members, active and retired, organized the project to adequately reflect all who keep watch for the United States.

“I think our veteran community and the community as a whole is going to be overwhelmed with the level of detail of this sentinel,” Kingsport Chamber President and CEO Miles Burdine told the Kingsport Times News. Burdine, a retired U.S. Marine colonel, served for 30 years prior to retirement with units across the globe, experiencing combat environments on three deployments.

The sentinel reminds the community of veterans’ importance, the community commits to showing its thanks through support for veteran-owned businesses and for service organizations and resources.

Kingsport proudly serves those who serve and thanks military members for their selfless acts.

The recipe for a great story starts with a memorable beginning and a solid plotline. Toss in some drama and creative, believable people, and finish with a rewarding ending and you’ve got all the ingredients for something pretty special.

That’s what we have at The High Road Agency. Each member of our team has a different story to tell. Everyone has different perspectives and varying approaches… but isn’t that what makes life interesting?

At the High Road Agency, we take building your brand seriously. As marketing professionals, we are continually striving to learn more about the brands we represent, the partners we serve and the best ways to communicate it to the targeted audiences.

We also like to get up close and personal with our partners. It is, after all, how you get to know them and those first-hand experiences and observations go a long way in building their brand. Storytelling is a formidable tool that allows marketers to share the best their partners have to offer.

And boy, do we have some great storytellers at the High Road Agency – mostly because each of them is distinctively unique.

For instance…

Matt Bolas is a palm tree. He is at his best when in the sunshine, waving at people… he’s also a little nutty, I mean, his cat’s name is Louis Meow-drell.

Sarah Mast has been described as Wonder Woman. She flies under the radar doing her thing, but when you need her, she swoops in and saves the day.

Kyle Wirick has been described as snarky. We like to think of him as direct and reliable with a very charming chin.

In the race of life, Lori Worley’s “work hard- play hard” philosophy always keeps her in first.

Kara Knapp is all about the details, cheering on her family, and red Twizzlers. Really, is there any other kind of Twizzlers?

Katie Westbrooks is a guru of color and design, fluent in both sarcasm and encouragement.

Kyle Long can do anything. He is a human Swiss Army Knife.

Seth Penley is a builder of things and people- his tools are cameras, saws, computers, and words.

As we said we all have diverse life experiences and each member of our team has a their own special narrative, just as our partners do. Because of these wide-ranging experiences and because we know how to tell phenomenal stories, we feel our greatest skill is that we are truly master storytellers.

Effective storytelling involves a genuine understanding of emotions, motivations, and psychology in order to truly move an audience. It also demands vivid insight and the skill to present an idea that packs enough emotional power to make it memorable. When it comes to relaying great stories and making an authentic connection, The High Road Agency knows how to do it in such a way that leaves an audience wanting more.

Don’t you want the best people in the business telling your story? Let The High Road Agency tell your story and elevate your brand – we promise it will be a real page turner that just might land on the best-seller list!
Luttrell Staffing Group, then known as AtWork Personnel Services, officially opened for business on April 3, 1993, when David Luttrell used a note payment to purchase the Greeneville, Tennessee, branch from AtWork franchise owner John Hall. Since he lived in Rogersville, Tennessee, he opened an office there as well soon after.

Motivated and determined to make this business venture a success, David started calling on prospective clients throughout Greene and Hawkins Counties, to little or no avail. After six months of fruitlessly pounding the streets, near the end of his rope, broke, and nearly bankrupt, David’s break finally came in the form of job orders from two large clients in Greeneville and Rogersville. From that solid foundation, he was able to hire more staff and add new clients.

In the summer of 1994 David’s brother, Marty, helped him open an office in Bristol, Tennessee. About a year later, Marty formed his own corporation, Marty, Inc., and took ownership of the Bristol branch, eventually opening up several locations in Virginia and, later, Johnson City, Tennessee. David continued to expand as well. In 2000, Marty and David merged their two companies and became partners as Professional Personnel Services (then doing business as AtWork Personnel Services, Inc.).

A couple of years after the merger, the pair bought a staffing service in Dandridge, Tennessee, called D&D Staffing, eventually turning the Dandridge / Morristown service area into the most profitable branch in AtWork franchise history. With its deep manufacturing client base, their Morristown office continues to be a powerhouse week after week.

Locations in several key areas followed in both Tennessee and Virginia, including two branches in the Knoxville, Tennessee area. They also branched out to Gainesville, Georgia in 2011. By 2012, David and Marty Luttrell’s AtWork franchise included 17 offices and several more on-site locations.

But their growth was far from finished. In 2014, Marty’s wife, Lana Luttrell, and David acquired a six-branch staffing service in Kentucky called Quality Personnel. With offices in Bowling Green, Glasgow, Columbia, Russellville, Hopkinsville, and Franklin and a stellar service history dating back to 1977, Quality’s deep client base and woman-owned status (Lana is majority owner) served as a solid foundation for continued and expanded success.

Other openings soon followed in middle Tennessee, Illinois, California, and even Vermont. A 2-story office building was purchased and renovated at 1040 Tidewater Court in Kingsport, Tennessee, becoming the firm’s new Corporate Offices. In January 2019, company owners split from AtWork Personnel to form their own company. After much discussion with company leadership, Luttrell Staffing Group became the official name for David and Marty’s former AtWork franchises, with Quality Personnel changing theirs several months later in September.

Today, Luttrell Staffing Group boasts 37 locations in seven states, with plans for several more already in the works. Their prolonged dedication to the company values of “Excellence, Grit, Integrity, and Service,” has helped the owners of Luttrell Staffing Group build a positive company culture that prides itself on providing the absolute best in customer service, whether that customer is a client looking for an employee or a job seeker looking for a job. As proof, the company’s consistently superb and industry-leading Net Promoter Score (NPS) has resulted in ClearlyRated’s “Best of Staffing” awards for client and talent for several years running.
“I JUST NEEDED A BUS TICKET.”

The former military veteran had to see his daughter graduate high school. Graduation—a can’t-miss moment—and a time about which the then homeless veteran dreaded to think. He had no money, no prospects, and no means to trek nearly seven hours to Kentucky.

“I had nowhere to turn,” he said.

Absent for some time from his daughter’s life, the trip meant more than just being a spectator in the high school hoopla; he sought to reenter his daughter’s life.

That’s when he decided to make the call. Enter the region’s premiere veteran’s advocate organization. With a few calls and the right person listening, the veteran secured his ticket to Kentucky—a ticket to get his life back on track. The reunion marked a monumental about-face, and the veteran returned to the region with a renewed sense of pride and new outlook, all fueled by a reinvigorated relationship and community kindness.

He’s been a productive, tax-paying member of said community ever since.

“You’ve got to help people. If they’re down and out, you help them,” Ernie Rumsby, president and co-founder of the Tri-Cities Military Affairs Council (TC-MAC), said. “It’s life changing. You can’t help but feel good about it.”

TC-MAC serves as a 501c3 nonprofit dedicated to aiding veterans through various means including education, government liaison services, housing, funeral arrangements, and referrals for daily services necessary to conduct productive living.

This attention to detail and unbridled compassion drives many related businesses and organizations, everything from local veteran services organizations to Chambers of Commerce to street corner businesses. In virtually all aspects, from the state house to city halls, TC-MAC remains dedicated to helping Tennessee’s largest local veteran population.

According to the United States Census Bureau, 59,136 civilian veterans live in Tennessee’s Congressional District 1. Virtually each regional veteran needs varying levels of assistance at some point.

TC-MAC gladly offers assistance to support the veterans who both serve and support the regional community. The region’s veterans generate nearly $2.2 billion in veteran’s benefits and Department of Defense contracts, much of which funnels back into our local economies.

Politicians take note.

While positive change continues on Capitol Hill, TC-MAC continues its work in the region through the combined efforts of committed volunteers and eleven board members who connect veterans to service providers and to one another for support and kinship.

TC-MAC, organized in 2012, follows a mission to recognize, encourage, support, and advocate for military and veteran affairs in Northeast Tennessee as they relate to national defense and economic vitality of the area. The council is open to any person or organization.

Welcome to Honda of Kingsport, where buying a vehicle is so much more than, well buying a vehicle.

A BUSINESSMAN FROM A BYGONE ERA
As a full time dad to four children (Alexandra, an audiologist, Tiffany, an RN, Taylor, a PA student, and John, a high school student) a boss to dozens of employees, a dedicated husband, and passionate businessman, everything Rogers does is infused with a sense of purpose and dignity.

He doesn’t have time for anything less.

His name is attached to the business, his employees and his customers. It’s as if he was uprooted from a bygone era of yesteryears, a carbon copy of your honest grandfather from 1950s when a handshake and your word mattered as much as a contract. It’s a business backbone that Rogers grew early on his in career. It’s guided him ever since.

It’s not even about the recognition. It’s about doing things the right way, ushering in a new way to view car dealers and in the process revamping the profession into the prestigious and honest business its always been.

“Our industry doesn’t have the best reputation, but I’ve so enjoyed helping people with the second largest purchase of their life,” he said. “I like to say that 90% of the car dealers make the rest of us look bad. In light of that, I try to make every experience positive. It’s not for everyone and we aren’t perfect, but we do a pretty good job of taking care of our people and our customers.”

When one speaks with Rogers, his passion is contagious.

“You can rest assured we will always do the right thing,” he continued. “This isn’t something that looks nice on a plaque, it really happens day in and day out. If we mess up something, we fix it and no else has to come to me for approval.”

In other words, Rogers trust his employees to do the right thing. In fact, he demands it. For a dealership as large as Honda Kingsport, the car-buying experience starts with the first face buyers meet, the men and women on the front lines, in the showroom, on the lot. It’s those people who drive the business home.

In other words, it’s a team effort, a family effort. In the end it’s an effort all about interpersonal relationships.

“A long time ago I would hire just to hire and now, we try to only hire the best person for the best position and give them every tool they need to succeed. We are in the people business where we happen to sell cars, parts and service, so if someone can’t deal with people, they are not a fit here,” he said. “My success at Honda Kingsport is only because of the people that surround me.”

All 80 of them to be exact.

Getting to know his employees is equally as important as getting to know his customers. If you treat your employees like family, it sets a tone, a benchmark, Rogers said, for them to then go treat customers like family.

“All early in my career, I realized we are in the people business and we happen to sell cars, parts and service. I try to get to know all 80 employees and learn about their families. I’m far from being perfect with this, but I know that people choose to work at Honda Kingsport and they could work anywhere,” he said. “When family members pass away, babies are born, folks get married, or they’re buying a new home…it’s all exciting to me to play a role in that.”

It’s a role he wants to continue to expand on, to build upon and ultimately shatter any preconceived ideals about the car buying process. Buying a vehicle, after all, is a huge life decision. It’s what you depend on to get to work, to take the kids to band practice and soccer games. Besides your bed and office, a vehicle is where you spend the most of your time. The fit has to be right, not just financially, but also practically. They’re not only an extension of your personality, they also showcase a certain taste or need in life. Rogers knows this. He knows other than a home, buying a vehicle is often the largest purchases someone makes. It’s an honor to be a part of that process. It’s not something that can be taken for granted. It must be earned.

Along the way, Rogers has learned how to perfect the partnership between himself and his customers. Sure, there’s been up and downs, the trials and tribulations. Each time, he’s learned from it, got back up, and when he did, stood taller, prouder, wiser and more attuned than ever before.

“Every time I fell on my face or failed miserably… that was when I learned the most,” he said. “I found that doing well was an enemy of getting better because I would become complacent. It’s when I truly made a terrible decision or perhaps the economy kicked our teeth in, I had to elevate my level of involvement and planning and as a result, I was able to improve on a whole new level.”

It’s taken more than two decades though to get to this point.

Fresh out of college, Rogers had a few job options. A family member who knew about the car business told Rogers if he went to work for one particular dealership he would hate it because it wasn’t the nicest culture. However, it was here that the most training was offered. His other option was to go to work for another dealership where everyone was nice, but no training happened.

The decision was easy. Niceties, at the time, were nothing if he didn’t understand the business side of things. Once the business was learned, then the niceties, a culture of caring and passion, could be implemented on top, he thought. Already a savvy businessman in his own mind, Rogers took the harder route.

“I decided to go to work where the training was great and I’ve never regretted it,” he said. “I don’t think I would be where I am now without that base.”

More than 25 years later, Rogers has found himself in the unique position to understand the business side of things, but also, as a managing partner, implement that culture so crucial to not only attracting customers, but retaining them for years to come.

It’s a simple motto really, but one that has served him well. “Take care of your people and take care of your customers and you’ll be better than most of your competition,” he said.

In part, Rogers said, this starts with taking care of yourself and your family.

As a marathon runner, and author of “The 17 Laws of Parenting and co-author of “Pillars of Success,” Rogers finds a work-life-family balance that enables him to chase success in the business world so passionately.

It’s clear his wife, Tracey, his high school sweetheart, who he’s been married to for 30 years, his faith and the special time he carves out for his family has a lasting impact. On Sundays, for instance, nothing beats a good 5k run or bike trip on the Greenbelt after church, maybe bringing cheddar rounds from Pals back to the family and then shoring up a hectic week snuggling up with his wife for a good movie.

Tracey “is my hero,” he said. “Anyone who could live with me for 30 years automatically gets hero status. There isn’t a day she isn’t supporting me and our kids by praying for us, talking us off the ledge, work through what’s going on and by the Grace of God and my wife, our children have such a moral compass and drive for excellence that I could never have instilled.”

JOINING YOUR KINGSPORT CHAMBER WILL HELP GROW YOUR BUSINESS...AND YOUR COMMUNITY

A globally-recognized brand, the “chamber of commerce” is the world’s leading business organization that works every day to serve as the voice, protector and champion of business. Now in its 73rd year, the Kingsport Chamber’s mission is to utilize resources and focus efforts on enhancing a strong and viable business environment for the Kingsport area. Quite simply, the Kingsport Chamber is all about business – your business – and works every day to provide opportunities for your company to gain new customers, generate sales and increase profits.

“If you own a business or are the leader or manager a company, then you need to join your Kingsport Chamber,” said Eric Deaton, Kingsport Chamber chair and the chief operating officer with Ballad Health. “Being a Kingsport Chamber member gains your business access to new customers and a number of marketing opportunities. It’s one of the most important and wisest decisions you will ever make as a business leader.”

Bob Feathers, a past Kingsport Chamber chair and the owner of two very successful and very distinct businesses – WorkSpace Interiors and East Coast Wings Grill – credits a huge part of the successes of his companies to his membership in the Kingsport Chamber.
“The success both companies have enjoyed for many years is due in large part to creating a sound business plan, implementing a comprehensive marketing strategy, hiring talented, dedicated and experienced professionals and practicing sound financial management,” Feathers said. “I can also attest without hesitation that an enormous part of that success is the direct result of our membership in and involvement with the Kingsport Chamber.”

The Kingsport Chamber embodies this mantra by creating and fostering a strong business environment that lets businesses thrive and succeed, lobbying local, state and federal governmental officials on legislative issues that impact business, providing a plethora of networking opportunities, bringing thousands of visitors and tourism dollars to town, nurturing small business, preserving the environment, cultivating leaders who give life to community dreams, enhancing stem education, promoting healthy living and workplaces and planning and hosting a number of community events and programs.

All of these critical and nationally-recognized programs help Kingsport Chamber members promote and market themselves, create key and long-lasting business relationships, and grow their businesses.

In addition, a large part of the Kingsport Chamber’s work is to build upon and enhance the community’s superb quality of life…whether it’s through championing educational endeavors, supporting the arts, promoting health, nurturing small business, leveraging corporate support for key city developments and community projects or creating events for all residents, visitors and business professionals to enjoy.

“As a business leader, I am always looking for ways to meet new customers, cultivate business relationships, support economic development initiatives, and help build my community for future generations…and the Kingsport Chamber does all of this in exceptional, enduring and impactful ways,” Feathers commented. “The Kingsport Chamber is the perfect way for businesses to get connected and help the community.”

Each of these highly-respected programs provide countless ways to get involved and grow your business.

“Joining your Kingsport Chamber is the easiest, most cost effective and most important business decision you can make…and it’s one I can fully attest will tremendously benefit your company for years and years to come,” Feathers added.

Healthy Kingsport is a non-profit organization dedicated to creating a community that actively embraces healthy living by promoting wellness, enhancing infrastructure, and influencing policy. Our work is accomplished by virtue of the Collective Impact Model—a best practice for solving complex, pressing social issues. This model is designed around a backbone organization (Healthy Kingsport) which serves as the convener of many organizations working toward a common agenda with shared measurements, mutually reinforcing activities and continuous communication.

Specifically, Healthy Kingsport and its many, diverse sponsors and partners are working to promote better nutrition, physical activity and tobacco cessation in our community. Today, in Sullivan County, 72.9 percent of adults are overweight or obese, our community is below average when it comes to physical activity, and 26 percent of adults use tobacco. These percentages reflect cultural norms that are higher than the national average and are a cause of great concern for our families, friends, and neighbors.

Leadership Kingsport’s mission is “to develop leaders who give life to community dreams.” This program provides opportunities for leaders and emerging leaders from various sectors of the community to study local issues and to further develop their leadership skills.

Approximately 30 individuals are selected for each year’s class based on submitted applications and personal interviews. To graduate, you must engage fully in the process and have the workplace flexibility. The class will run from August to May (monthly program days) with a two-day teambuilding retreat in September and a trip to Nashville in March. Participation in a group Community Impact Project (CIP) is also required. Anyone interested in serving the community is encouraged to apply.
S.H.O.U.T.!® stands for Students Helping Others Understand Tomorrow® and is for talented high school students who might someday hold positions of leadership in our region. The program offers lively, interactive sessions where you’ll learn leadership skills and important information about our community including volunteer opportunities.

Program days consist of topics such as Know your Peers, Know your Self, Know your Leaders, Know your Community and Know your Ability. Students are selected each year based on submitted applications and can choose to attend the full week-long session during either June or July.

Teens are selected as representatives who do outreach with their peers & community, youth advocacy work and meet with city officials. The Mayor’s Youth Council will provide students the opportunity to develop leadership and citizenship skills while learning about city government. The Council is a chosen, diverse group of individuals that are ready to help make a difference.

Representatives are being sought from city schools, county schools and homeschooled students. The members have to complete S.H.O.U.T.!® Youth Leadership prior to applying.
Move to Kingsport, a program managed by Visit Kingsport in partnership with the city of Kingsport, works to recruit, integrate and retain newcomers to the Kingsport community. The program has executed a national marketing campaign to encourage and assist individuals interested in moving to Kingsport. The program represents the area through participation in trade shows that showcase why Kingsport is a great place to live. The Move to Kingsport program also works directly with newcomers to help make the process of relocation to Kingsport easier through relocation packets, personal contact and a tour of Kingsport.

MOTTO: Kingsport is a special place with special people doing special things, resulting in a very unique, high quality of life in region, providing 53,000 residents with a small town feel where everyone knows your name and big city opportunities which is Kingsport’s main differentiator.

VISION: To be a premier city in Northeast TN to live, work, play, raise a family, and for businesses to grow and prosper.

MISSION: To increase the population by retaining current residents and attracting new residents to live in Kingsport. Move to Kingsport was launched in July, 2006, by the city of Kingsport and your Kingsport Chamber, as a new economic development strategy. One person moving to Kingsport is estimated to contribute approximately $25,000 to our local economy per year.

Most often people are first introduced to Kingsport after searching the internet for states with no income tax and end up stumbling across the Move to Kingsport website. The website showcases Kingsport’s many wonderful features, including its mild climate, low cost of living, quality education, natural beauty, attractions and overall quality of life.

Just a few of the many ways Move to Kingsport works to recruit new residents are:
- Relocation packets including a map of Kingsport, relocation guide, visitors guide and other community information mailed to all leads.
- Ideal Living trade shows for the Retire Tennessee and Live South programs, as well as retired Military.
- Personalized presentations and tours for newcomers.
- Move to Kingsport Facebook and Instagram account.
- Partnering with human resource professionals in recruiting employees.
- Integration into the community after relocating here.

Sharon Lambert

“We relocated to the area with my husband’s company that was located in Bristol, VA. After looking at all of the Tri-Cities area we decided on a home in Kingsport. This community has so much to offer and the atmosphere of the city is appealing to singles, families and “empty nesters” like us. There is no doubt that if my children were still young, this is where I would love to have had them grow up. The possibilities are endless for families from academics to recreation. In the summer, the community pulls together to celebrate life with concerts as well as many different community involved events.

After being here 3 years (5/2013 to 5/2016) they closed my husband’s plant. We left Kingsport and moved back to Florida. Thankfully our home here did not sell. After 3 months in Florida, we decided to move back to Kingsport and take “Our HOME” off the market for good. Long story short, I had to move back to Florida where I was born and raised to realize that Kingsport is truly my home and God always has a plan for us. Even if we have to take the LONG road to find it.”

Treyanna Hughes

“I love that it has the hometown feel, but with big city opportunities. Being a part of the Move to Kingsport process has allowed me to network and learn about endless initiatives and volunteer opportunities in this area. A chance I wouldn’t have been able to be a part of without being recruited through Move to Kingsport.”

Terry Hughes

“An outdoorsman’s paradise! It’s awesome not having to travel a long distance to able to enjoy outdoor activities – hiking, kayaking, fishing, snow skiing, etc. ”

WHY WE NEED MORE STREAM LEARNING
There is a skills gap in the 21st century workforce. Statistics show that in 2020, 65 percent of all jobs will require training beyond high school. At current enrollment rates, the U.S. will be short five million workers for these skilled careers. STREAMWORKS supports local K–12 science and mathematics education and helps get students excited about opportunities in higher education and technical fields.

OUR PROJECT-BASED PROGRAMS INCLUDE:
FIRST LEGO League teams (up to 10 members, grades 4–8) research a real-world problem such as food safety, recycling, energy, etc., and are challenged to develop a solution. They also must design, build, program a robot using LEGO MINDSTORMS®, then compete on a table-top playing field. Combining the excitement of sport with the rigors of science and technology.

We call FIRST Robotics Competition the ultimate Sport for the Mind. The positive impact on FIRST Robotics Competition participants is gratifying and well documented. Over 88 percent have more interest in doing well in school and 92 percent are more interested in attending college.

G3 Drones For Good is an exciting STEM competition involving drones for students in grades 6–8. Middle school students will build and fly their own K’Nex based drones to develop an innovative drone-based solution to a problem in their community, state or the world.

WHO WE ARE
Based in Kingsport, STREAMWORKS is an educational program that delivers enhanced opportunities for students (grades K–12) to participate in exciting mentor and project-based programs that focus on science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) skills; inspire innovation; and foster well-rounded life capabilities.

The Marine Advanced Technology Education (MATE) competition challenges K–12, community college and university students from all over the world to design and build remotely operated underwater vehicles (ROVs) to tackle missions modeled after scenarios from the ocean workplace.

Creativity and innovation are key elements to advancing the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) into the future. The RDL (Robot Drone League) challenge was designed to provide students with open-ended challenges that allow them to create and innovate using their hands and minds. Students then have the opportunity to develop real-world connections to what they are learning in the classroom. Working with robots in a collaborative game format can be a very powerful tool to engage students and enhance their math and science skills through hands-on, student-centered learning. Through participation in the RDL (Robot Drone League), students can develop the essential life skills of teamwork and collaboration, as well as the critical thinking, project management, and communication skills required to become the next generation of innovators and problem solvers in our global society.

These building blocks can then be reintroduced to the production of new polyester-based polymers, delivering a true circular solution. Eastman’s carbon renewal technology is capable of recycling some of the most complex plastic waste, including non-polyester plastics and mixed plastics that can’t be recycled with conventional recycling technologies.
