Thank you for joining us for an overview of the SBA coronavirus relief options.

- During the presentation, all attendees will have audio and video muted.
- We ask that you place all questions in the chat box.
- For those of you having problems accessing the Skype link, we will be announcing slide transition so you can follow along with the slide deck you previously received.
Our nation's small businesses are facing an unprecedented economic disruption due to the Coronavirus outbreak. On Friday, March 27, 2020, the President signed into law the CARES Act, which contains $376 billion in relief for American workers and small businesses.

In response to the Coronavirus pandemic, small business owners and non-profit organizations in all U.S. states, Washington D.C., and territories are eligible to take advantage of a variety of funding options.

Some information that is common across all the programs you see on this slide include:

• That you can have multiple SBA loans but only one PPP loan and one EIDL per business.
• That applicants are required to have a Social Security Number or EIN.
The Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) is a loan designed to provide a direct incentive for small businesses to keep their workers on the payroll. This is a guaranteed loan administered by your local lender.

Note that faith-based organizations and agricultural enterprises have been added as eligible entities.

To be eligible, a business or non-profit must have been in operation by February 15, 2020.

The loan is designed to cover up to 8 weeks of payroll, interest on mortgages, rent and utilities.

Payroll costs include things like salary, wages, cash tips, vacation/sick leave, and a variety of other benefits.

Forgiveness of the loan will be based on the employer maintaining or quickly rehiring employees and maintaining salary levels and will be reduced if full-time headcount declines, or if salaries and wages decrease.

If an Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) was also received, that amount may be added to this loan for payoff of the EIDL if the EIDL was used for the same payroll expenses.
Paycheck Protection Program (PPP)

- Up to $10M, 2-year term, 1% interest
  - Loan payments deferred for 6 months, interest will accrue
- Required documentation may include
  - Payroll records or tax filings
  - Form 1099-MISC
  - Income expense for sole proprietorship
- No Fees, Collateral or Personal Guarantees
- Apply directly with Lender - https://www.sba.gov/content/minnesota-lenders-list
- You can see sample documents at the PPP website (Forms 2483, 2484) - https://www.sba.gov/funding-programs/loans/coronavirus-relief-options/paycheck-protection-program-ppp

- The maximum loan amount is $10M and the term for any portion not forgiven is 2 years at 1% interest
- Loan payments will be deferred for 6 months during which time interest will accrue. In other words, you will have 18 months to pay off the loan.
- The bank you are working with will require appropriate documents to support payroll costs. Some examples are included here.
- SBA is not requiring the banks to take collateral or personal guarantees and no fees will be paid by the applicant.
- There is a list of eligible MN lenders on the Minnesota District Office website, just follow the link provided.
- Lenders will be doing electronic submissions, but you can use the documents listed, the 2483 and 2484, to see what information borrowers and lenders will be required to provide
- Deadline for applying is 6/30/2020
Paycheck Protection Program (PPP)

Some employees make more than $100,000, outstanding EIDL loan of $10,000

➢ Annual payroll: $1,500,000
➢ Subtract compensation amounts in excess of annual salary of $100,000: $1,200,000
➢ Average monthly payroll: $100,000
➢ Multiply by 2.5 = $250,000
➢ Add EIDL loan of $10,000 = $260,000
➢ Maximum loan amount is $260,000

Here is an example of how the loan amount is calculated. The assumption of this example is that there are employees with wages in excess of $100,000 and that an EIDL was also used for some payroll expenses.

• $100,000 per employee is the maximum covered so amounts over $100,000 will be subtracted out
• The exclusion of compensation in excess of $100,000 annually applies only to cash compensation, not to non-cash benefits, including: • employer contributions to defined-benefit or defined-contribution retirement plans; • payment for the provision of employee benefits consisting of group health care coverage, including insurance premiums; and • payment of state and local taxes assessed on compensation of employees.”
• After removing excess wages and including benefit costs, the amount will be divided by 12 to determine the average monthly payroll
• This is then multiplied by 2.5 to determine the 8-week amount of loan coverage
• If the EIDL loan was also used for payroll expense, which it was in this example, it gets added to create a final loan amount, for this example $260,000.
• Small business owners should keep track of all documentation used to support the information in the loan application as well as the information you will be providing to your lender to support forgiveness of loan.
Economic Injury Disaster Loan Advance

Any entity that is eligible to apply for a COVID-19 Economic Injury Disaster Loan is eligible for the loan advance

- Up to $10,000
- No requirement to repay advance, even if denied for a disaster loan
- Applications submitted prior to March 30, 2020 need to reapply at the new portal for the Advance.

How can I use the loan advance funds?

- Payroll costs, salaries, sick leave
  - Rent or mortgage payments
    - Material costs
    - Pre-existing debt

This is a disaster loan with a forgivable advance on the loan. The EIDL received new appropriated funds but the portal is not yet open for new applications.

- Applicants are eligible for up to $10,000 that may be requested immediately by opting in at the end of the Economic Injury Disaster Loan application.
- There is no requirement to repay the advance, even if the applicant is denied a disaster loan.
- If someone submitted an EIDL application prior to March 30th, they must reapply using the new streamlined application portal and check the box for the advance as this was not previously available.
- The use of funds for this loan are the day-to-day expenses of operating a business.
- You will have until Dec 31st, 2020 to apply.

• The next two slides are screen shots showing the first page of the application portal.
• The new streamlined process allows businesses to apply for both the Economic Injury Disaster Loan and Advance with one application.
• On the pages following this one, you will provide business information and business owner information. The last page will ask you to opt in on the Advance and provide bank information for disbursements.
• Additional supporting documentation may be necessary and requested as needed by your loan officer after you apply.
• Timeline for receipt of loan funds will depend on the size of the loan and the volume of applications.
• Please do not email or mail any additional documents to SBA unless requested. If you are contacted via email, please double check your reference number to avoid scams and fraud.
Updated Application Process

You will need to verify certain items to ensure eligibility for the program. Failure to check all listed items will make the applicant ineligible. Note that agricultural enterprises are now an eligible entity under EIDL Advance. If you have questions about eligibility or any required information, you can contact the customer service staff by email or phone for clarification. It is estimated that the online application will take less than 2 hours, including gathering all required information. The amount of the loan will be determined by the information you provide throughout this process.
EIDL Advance disbursements are showing up in Minnesota small business owners bank accounts.

It is our understanding the deposit appears as “SBA Treas”.

What you see on this slide is a portion of the email that the recipient receives.
EIDL Email

You should receive an email like this when your EIDL application has been turned over to a case manager for review.

You will be asked to create an account in the disaster portal and it is how the case manager will communicate with you.

In the case of a decline, you will receive a letter in the mail indicating the reason for the decline and the mechanism for requesting reconsideration.

BEWARE OF SCAMS AND FRAUD SCHEMES

The Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (CARES Act), the largest financial assistance bill to date, includes provisions to help small businesses. Fraudsters have already begun targeting small business owners during these economically difficult times. Be on the lookout for grant fraud, loan fraud, and phishing.

From our Partners at IRS: BE AWARE OF SCAMS RELATED TO THE STIMULUS PAYMENT

- Government agencies will not call, text, or email you requesting information for stimulus payments.
- Be aware of phishing calls, emails, or texts that include language such as: “In order to receive your stimulus payment by direct deposit, you must confirm your bank information.”

- SBA is aware of a number of scams and fraud schemes around the coronavirus funding options.
- Keep in mind there is no cost to apply for the Economic Injury Disaster Loan or Advance.
- SBA does not solicit contact on any of the programs, nor do we require upfront payments of any kind.
- Please be mindful of 3rd parties who take payments for helping you fill out the application.
- If you are contacted regarding your loan via email, ensure that the reference application number is consistent with your actual application number. If in doubt, please verify all program information at sba.gov or by contacting SBA directly.
