The Long Island Association Annual Awards ~ November 19, 2020
Kevin S. Law
Message from LIA President and CEO

This evening, the Long Island Association (“LIA”) proudly honors one of the region’s leading companies and their employees, as well as three prominent stewards of the region who understand the importance between doing business in a community and serving that community. At tonight’s Gala, we salute the employees of National Grid led by New York President John Bruckner; Paul Fleishman, former Vice President of Public Affairs for Newsday; Carol Silva, former News Anchor for News 12 Long Island; and Stuart Rabinowitz, President of Hofstra University.

John Bruckner and the employees of National Grid will receive our highest accolade – the Long Island Association Medal of Honor – which is given to individuals and companies who have contributed significantly to the growth of Long Island and an improvement in our quality of life. In his current role as New York President, John leads National Grid’s regulated businesses that deliver electricity to 1.6 million customers in upstate New York and natural gas to 2.3 million customers in upstate New York, Brooklyn, Staten Island, Queens and Long Island. The company’s New York service area spans from Niagara Falls to the East End.

National Grid is committed to its New York customers, to partnerships with stakeholders to ensure delivery of an energy future that is smarter, cleaner, and more resilient, and to advancing the state and PSC’s clean energy goals.

Paul Fleishman is being presented with The Harry Chapin Humanitarian Award for Community Service. He is an outstanding leader who reflects Harry’s spirit of compassion, enthusiasm, tenacity and belief in the Long Island community. Paul recently retired from Newsday after 23 years where he was Vice President of Public Affairs, wrapping up his career as an accomplished Long Island media executive with extensive experience across the broadcasting and publishing fields. At Newsday, Paul managed community affairs, corporate communications and signature community programs such as the Newsday High School Marching Band Festival, High School awards programs, Life’s Victories breast cancer awareness program and Newsday Charities, which conducts annual campaigns and makes sizeable grants to local organizations assisting at-risk children and families.

Carol Silva is being honored with the LIA Lifetime Achievement Award. This award recognizes her numerous achievements and commitment to Long Island. For 33 years, Carol was the veteran, Emmy Award-winning News 12 Long Island news anchor who shared the lives of 3 million Long Islanders from the anchor desk and from the road. She reported from Ground Zero, Albany, Washington, New Orleans and Texas covering Popes, presidential elections and state and congressional hearings. Carol’s three Emmys are among her 40-plus journalism awards. In 2019, she was inducted into the prestigious Silver Circle of the New York Chapter of the National Academy of Television, Arts & Sciences and the Long Island Journalism Hall of Fame.

Stuart Rabinowitz is being honored with the LIA Lifetime Achievement Award. This award recognizes his involvement and many accomplishments on behalf of Long Island. Stuart was chosen by the Hofstra University Board of Trustees to serve as the eighth president of the University on December 20, 2000 and assumed office in June 2001. Prior to his appointment, he served as dean of Hofstra University School of Law from September 1989 through June 2001. Under his leadership, Hofstra has created several new schools, including the Donald and Barbara Zucker School of Medicine at Hofstra/Northwell, the Hofstra/Northwell School of Graduate Nursing and Physician Assistant Studies, the Fred DeMatteis School of Engineering and Applied Sciences, the Peter S. Kalikow School of Government, Public Policy and International Affairs and the School of Health Professions and Human Services. He also founded the University’s National Center for Suburban Studies and the Center for Entrepreneurship.

I would like to thank all of the award winners who make Long Island a better place to live and work and for believing in the goals of the LIA. With companies and individuals supporting us like National Grid, led by John Bruckner; Paul Fleishman; Carol Silva; and Stuart Rabinowitz, we are confident the LIA will continue to be the voice for Long Island. Congratulations to this evening’s honorees!
Looking Out for Long Island

The Long Island Association ("LIA") is a non-profit and non-partisan organization that is looked to both on and off the Island to articulate the region's needs, future direction and public policy goals. As the leading business organization in the region, and one of the most well-respected in the state, the mission of the LIA is to lead and unify the region in order to enhance, strengthen and protect Long Island as a premier place to live, work and play. The LIA advocates for policies, programs and projects that create jobs, spur private investment, reduce the federal, state and local tax burden, improve access to and from New York City and improve the overall business climate in our region. We also support economic development, workforce housing, greater state support for education, public safety, clean reliable energy, workforce training and retention, environmental protection, technology and infrastructure investments, and our not-for-profit organizations as well as opportunities for growth, equality and diversity in our region.

This year was unlike any other and we hope you and your families are healthy and safe. As many of us continue to return to the office and our children have started a new year of school, the LIA remains committed to doing everything we can to assist our economic recovery from the devastating impact of Covid-19. Under the leadership of President & CEO Kevin Law, the LIA partnered with Newsday to offer more than 20 free webinars to help businesses navigate the available resources to keep their doors open. All of these webinars can still be viewed at our website www.longislandassociation.org. In addition, Kevin was appointed by Governor Cuomo to serve on the NY Forward Advisory Board as well as the Long Island Control Room to work with state and local officials to reopen our economy in a way that is safe for employers and employees. The LIA team also fielded hundreds of inquiries from businesses to help them through Covid-19. The LIA will continue these efforts to ensure that Long Island’s business community recovers as quickly as possible while remaining vigilant in curbing the spread of the virus.

Despite the pandemic, the LIA continued its tradition of hosting nationally known and prominent business leaders, government officials and athletes. In October, the LIA held a highly successful virtual Fall Luncheon featuring former Yankees superstar Alex Rodriguez that was viewed by approximately 1,000 people. In addition, during the summer we restarted our special events and committee meetings virtually, including events on Long Island’s energy future; an update on the future home of the New York Islanders at Belmont Park; coronavirus-related financial resources and assistance programs for small businesses; the global, national and local economic impacts of Covid-19; the future of solid waste disposal in the region; and the USMCA trade agreement and what it means for Long Island. Before the onset of Covid-19, the LIA also held our annual State of the Region Executive Breakfast in January which featured Nassau County Executive Laura Curran, Suffolk County Executive Steve Bellone and the Director of Brookhaven National Laboratory, Doon Gibbs.

Last year’s Gala was a tremendous success, attracting approximately 1,000 members of Long Island’s top business leaders. While the 2020 Gala will be a different experience, we feel fortunate to have this opportunity to recognize our honorees and share this special night with you virtually.
Lawrence J. Waldman
Message from the LIA Chairman

The Long Island Association’s Annual Awards Gala is recognized as the premier business and social occasion on Long Island. This year, we come together virtually to recognize all that is good about Long Island and the compassionate individuals and companies who make our community special.

To receive an award at our Gala, honorees must demonstrate integrity and professionalism to their businesses, leadership and charity in their philanthropic endeavors and commitment and pride in their home – Long Island. In short, tonight’s recipients are not merely about receiving awards; they earned them.

Tonight, we are delighted for the opportunity to highlight a group of individuals who understand the wonders of Long Island and the importance of the region to their success. In return, they go above and beyond to make Long Island a better place to live, raise a family and conduct business.

National Grid’s NY President John Bruckner and the Employees of National Grid are the recipients of the 2020 LIA Medal of Honor, which is the LIA’s most prestigious award. The Harry Chapin Humanitarian Award for Community Service will be presented to Paul Fleishman, former Vice President of Public Affairs, Newsday. Carol Silva, Emmy Award-winning News 12 Long Island news anchor and Stuart Rabinowitz, President, Hofstra University are both recipients of the LIA Lifetime Achievement Award. They are all outstanding examples of caring, giving back and making the Long Island community a better place for all.

This evening is only possible as a result of the collaboration among many professionals from businesses and organizations throughout the region. We thank LIA President & CEO Kevin Law, the LIA staff, the LIA Board of Directors, the LIA’s members and the honorees’ business partners and contributors for supporting this event.

To you, the Long Island business community, we extend our sincere appreciation for your support and generosity. We hope you enjoy this very special evening.
John Bruckner and the Employees of National Grid
Long Island Association Medal of Honor

John Bruckner, president of National Grid’s New York business, is a strong and seasoned leader with over 34 years of experience in the energy industry.

A resident of Long Island, John began his career with National Grid and its legacy companies in 1985. His extensive experience in the electric industry is the result of a diverse career. John has significant experience in storm restoration and served as system incident commander for National Grid’s U.S. operations. John is committed to their New York customers, to partnerships with stakeholders to ensure National Grid’s delivery of an energy future that is smarter, cleaner, and more resilient, and to advancing the state and PSC’s clean energy goals.

National Grid delivers electricity to 1.6 million customers in upstate New York and natural gas to 2.3 million customers in upstate New York, Brooklyn, Staten Island, Queens and Long Island. The company’s New York service area spans from Niagara Falls to the forks of Long Island.

During the current pandemic crisis, National Grid’s Downstate team came to the aide of their most vulnerable customers during this time. Labeled “Operation National Grid Cares,” the team supplied food and PPE to over 30 food pantries, Fire Departments, EMS workers and the Suffolk County Police Department. Some of the organizations include United Way, Island Harvest, Hope House Ministries and Suffolk Community College.

John Bruckner and the Employees of National Grid are thrilled to be receiving the Long Island Association’s Medal of Honor for 2020. This prestigious award recognizes the hardworking, dedicated team members at National Grid, and honors their commitment to serving the greater community of Long Island.
“Our lives are to be used and thus to be lived as fully as possible, and truly it seems that we are never so alive as when we concern ourselves with other people.”

Paul Fleishman
The Harry Chapin Humanitarian Award for Community Service

Paul Fleishman recently retired from Newsday after 23 years where he was Vice President of Public Affairs, wrapping up his career as an accomplished Long Island media executive with extensive experience across the broadcasting and publishing fields. At Newsday, Paul managed community affairs, corporate communications and signature community programs such as the Newsday High School Marching Band Festival, High School awards programs, Life’s Victories breast cancer awareness program and Newsday Charities, which conducts annual campaigns and makes sizeable grants to local organizations assisting at-risk children and families.

Paul began his media career as a news reporter/desk assistant at a small Freeport radio station in 1970. He spent the next 26 years in the Long Island radio business, ultimately as General Manager of WBAB and WBLI before joining Newsday.

Throughout his career, Paul has been a supporter, leader and advocate for many community, non-profit and business groups. Since 1990, he has been on the Board of Directors of the United Way of Long Island, where he is also on the Board’s Executive Committee and Chair of the Marketing Committee. He is on the Board of Directors and Executive Committee of Variety Child Learning Center in Syosset and the Advisory Board of SUNY/Old Westbury’s School of Business.

Over the years, he and his broadcasting and Newsday teams have received numerous awards for public service, journalism, marketing and community affairs accomplishments.

Throughout his prestigious career, Paul has epitomized the sense of community activism, and is extremely deserving of being Long Island Association’s 2020 recipient of the Harry Chapin Humanitarian Award for Community Service.
Carol Silva
LIA Lifetime Achievement Award

Carol Silva is the veteran, Emmy Award-winning News 12 Long Island news anchor. For 33 years, Carol shared the lives of 3-million Long Islanders from the anchor desk and from the road. She reported from Ground Zero, Albany, Washington, New Orleans and Texas covering Popes, presidential elections and state and congressional hearings.

Carol’s three Emmys are among her 40-plus journalism awards. In 2019, she was inducted into the prestigious Silver Circle of the New York Chapter of the National Academy of Television, Arts & Sciences and the Long Island Journalism Hall of Fame.

Carol started in radio, moving from Long Island rock stations WBAB and WLIR to New York’s WNBC, WOR and the RKO Radio Network. A graduate of New York Institute of Technology, she was their 2018 commencement speaker and awarded NYIT’s Honorary Doctorate.

Among hundreds of appearances, in 2019 Carol got a standing ovation from nearly 900 women in New York’s Marriott Marquis Main Ballroom as she led the Executive Leadership panel of the annual global WICT Leadership Conference (Women in Cable Telecommunications.) Carol speaks to corporate, community and school groups about motivation, finding your power, working women and coming back from defeat. (A little secret: for 33 years Carol hung her first Cablevision rejection letter on the wall of her News 12/Cablevision/Altice office!)

Carol is a columnist for Long Island Woman Magazine, a New York State Woman of Distinction, and a LI Business News “Top 50 Women on Long Island” and “New York Icon.” LI Press readers voted her the “Best Local TV Reporter.” But Carol’s favorite moments have come working with her children as a boys and girls soccer coach, a longtime PTA Board member and a Girl Scout leader. The Girl Scouts of America honored her work with their distinguished “Juliette Low Award.”

A Mexican American, Carol was named Hispanic of the Year by the Suffolk County Police Department and a Hispanic role model by the Nassau County Hispanic Cultural Association. NY’s Catholic Archdiocese gave Carol their TRISCORT Award for, “spreading optimism, faith and hope in her daily work as a journalist.”

Carol says everyone has a story. She’s writing her next chapter right now.
