Excellence in Human Resources Award

The London Chamber of Commerce and the Human Resources Professionals of London and District (HRPLD) are recognizing businesses whose human resources policies and practices promote innovative solutions to current challenges. The basic goal is to encourage businesses to actively promote sound human resources policies in their workplace, regardless of size or industry.

This Award is designed to stimulate and recognize human resources excellence in any company that develops and uses best practices in recruitment, retention, and talent management. Formal and informal mentoring as a tool to retain and develop the workforce is encouraged. Organizations must demonstrate a focus on diversity through: creating an organizational community that includes all employees, employing people with a broad range of backgrounds and abilities, and participating in community outreach.
