Gigi's Cupcakes Owner to Speak at Women's Business Council

OPELIKA, AL, March 22, 2017 – Jennifer Cooper, owner of Gigi's Cupcakes, will be the guest speaker at the Spring Women's Business Council Breakfast (WBC) on Thursday, April 6, beginning at 8 am at the Saughatchee Country Club.

Born and raised in Memphis, TN, Jennifer has always had a very sweet tooth. She met her husband Patrick while attending Auburn University. The two married in 2005 and moved to Patrick's hometown of Fort Payne, Alabama, where Jennifer taught 7th grade life science. With the downturn of the economic climate in 2009, the Patrick's family business closed and the couple found themselves at a crossroads of what to do next and where to live.

Come and hear the fascinating story of how Gigi's Cupcakes came to this area. They now own a total of five Gigi's Cupcakes: Opelika, Auburn, Montgomery and Prattville in Alabama and one in Columbus, GA.

The Women's Business Council was formed to promote the participation and leadership of women at all levels in the workplace, the community and in government. The scope of the WBC is to develop programs that provide opportunities for women to learn and network as well as share their expertise with each other and to address the unique issues of women in business.

Tickets are $20 for Chamber members and $25 for potential Chamber members. You can purchase them by visiting www.opelikachamber.com or by calling 334.745.4861. Deadline to reserve your spot is April 3, 2017.
