Coweta County is a healthcare destination, offering a wide range of integrated medical care in state-of-the-art treatment facilities.

Open the door to great healthcare
Patients and their families are now traveling from other areas to our county to seek treatment here.

For every new physician brought into the local economy, 21 new jobs are created.

One of six pillars that holds Coweta County’s economic prosperity up high is healthcare. Results from a recent study concluded that 10 of the 20 fastest-growing occupations are in the healthcare field. In the last decade alone, healthcare employment has increased by 23 percent.

The study also concluded that 21 new jobs are created for every new physician brought into the local economy, generating more than $2 million in local revenue. In the last decade, Coweta County has seen three new hospitals established, along with countless other healthcare facilities ranging from urgent care, specialty care, women’s health services, hospice and assisted living facilities and a VA clinic. These facilities have not only succeeded in delivering compassionate care for local and out-of-state patients and their families, but they have also created an economic boon that has significantly impacted the community, even spreading into the educational sector. In 2014, over 27 percent of the technical college graduates in Coweta County earned degrees in the medical field, and 222 students graduated from the University of West Georgia with an RN, RN-BSN or MSN.

The new nurse graduates are entering a healthcare and social assistance sector that employs an incredible 13 percent of Coweta County’s workforce with an average salary of $50,000 per full-time employee. The high percentage of employment dedicated to healthcare and the recent influx of nationally-recognized hospitals to the area make Coweta County a new healthcare mecca. The days of driving to other counties, cities or even states are over. Now nearly every healthcare need can be met in our own backyard. This fact hugely impacts the county’s economy by keeping local money local in terms of healthcare spending. It also means patients and their families are now traveling from other areas to our county to seek treatment here, bringing more dollars into the local economy from dining, shopping and accommodation costs.

Each healthcare facility in Coweta County contributes to the community’s economic success, and each holds a key that will open Prosperity’s Front Door.
Although relatively new to the area, HealthSouth Newnan is already adding to Coweta County’s economic prosperity in more ways than one:

- Created approximately 400 construction jobs during the construction phase
- Employs more than 130 employees
- Provides an average annual salary of $55,000+ per full-time employee

The medical professionals at HealthSouth Newnan have one goal in mind, which is to lead patients to recovery and back to their active, independent lives.

One of the newest hospitals to call Coweta County home, HealthSouth Rehabilitation Hospital of Newnan is part of the HealthSouth network of hospitals located in 33 states throughout the U.S. and in Puerto Rico.

HealthSouth Newnan is a 50-bed inpatient rehabilitation hospital that provides comprehensive rehabilitation services to patients who have suffered severe functional impairment due to amputation, cancer, cardiac conditions, hip fractures, joint replacements, neurological disorders, stroke, trauma and pulmonary conditions. Patients receive a higher level of care through inpatient rehabilitation and therapy plans that include physical, occupational and speech-language therapy, all of which the hospital offers.

Upon opening, CTCA was projected to generate 500 new jobs and $500 million in economic activity over its first five years of operation. The hospital vastly exceeded those expectations in just two years, and now employs more than 1,000. Coweta County looks forward to continual growth at CTCA. The facility is currently expanding its hotel for patients and their families, growing the hospital to approximately 455,000 square feet, or double its original footprint.

C TCA is the home of Patient Empowered Care®, a unique care model combining state-of-the-art clinical treatments and technology with nutrition therapy, naturopathic medicine, pain management, oncology rehabilitation, mind-body medicine and spiritual support to help manage side effects and improve quality of life. In Newnan a growing clinical team of more than 200 physicians across a variety of specialties and expertise bring innovative and advanced treatments and technology to patients, including NanoKnife®, HIPEC, the da Vinci® Surgical System, INTRABEAM® IORT, Varian TrueBeam™ system, TomoTherapy®, Calypso® 4D Localization System™ and more. CTCA has also launched the Centers for Advanced Oncology, which offers multi-disciplinary teams focused on specific cancer types (breast, lung, prostate, hematology and GI) and the Centers for Advanced Individual Medicine which provide advanced genomic testing to offer patients a deeper understanding of the unique nature of their cancer at the genetic level and potential for more targeted treatment options. The Newnan facility also provides a significant economic boon to the region. Upon opening, CTCA was projected to generate 500 new jobs and $500 million in economic activity over its first five years of operation. The hospital vastly exceeded those expectations in just two years, and now employs more than 1,000. According to a recent study, CTCA has generated $1.3 billion in new economic impact in Georgia since its groundbreaking and $950 million in Coweta County alone. CTCA continues to give to the community in more ways than one. The establishment has contributed more than $800,000 to charitable organizations since 2012, and partners with various organizations including Habitat for Humanity and Coweta Samaritan Clinic to positively impact individuals and Coweta County as a whole.

More than 65 percent of CTCA patients come from states other than Georgia.

Ansley Park is dedicated and patient-focused in assisting the patient on the road to recovery and back home to their family and friends.
The goal of the Coweta Samaritan Clinic is to become the primary medical care home for uninsured and medically underserved residents of Coweta County.

Opening the doors to its first patient in October 2011, the Coweta Samaritan Clinic has been an advocate for health and wellness in Coweta County for four years. Originally founded by Dr. Kay Crosby, the clinic was designed to serve a specific patient base of adult residents in the county who are uninsured and have a household income at or below 200 percent of the Federal Poverty Level. The goal of the clinic is to become the primary medical care home for uninsured and medically underserved residents of Coweta County by providing free primary medical care, restorative dental care and compassionate support.

Since 2011, the clinic has had more than 9,000 patient visits, all free of charge, and expects to see a 30 percent increase in patient visits for 2015. With a staff of only three full-time and four part-time employees, the clinic relies on the help of volunteers to meet the needs of the large patient base, including physicians, nurses, office staff and other health professionals. In addition to primary care, the clinic also provides specialty care including cardiology, dermatology, endocrinology and gynecology one day a month thanks to volunteer specialists. Other generous medical specialists treat clinic patients in their offices without charge. Volunteer dentists treat clinic patients three evenings each month in the West Georgia Technical College Dental Assisting Lab located in the Central Educational Center. The clinic is also partnered with Piedmont Newnan Hospital, which provides lab and some radiology services free to clinic patients and American Health Imaging which provides CTs, MRIs and ultrasounds without charge. Other partners provide monetary donations to the clinic, including the Newnan Hospital Foundation, which pledged $1 million in funds over a ten-year span, and the Coweta County Hospital Authority, which leases the Sam Brown Medical Building to the clinic for only $1 annually. Their donations, along with others, make assisting medically underserved residents in Coweta County possible. With the support of the community, staff and volunteers, the Coweta Samaritan Clinic is making Coweta County a healthier place to live one patient at a time.
Guided by the needs of our growing business and residential communities, and taking full advantage of our strategic location, educated workforce and health infrastructure, Coweta County envisions fostering steady economic development, ensuring an expanding global impact and boundless prosperity.
