I founded CMIT Solutions of Greensboro to combine my passion for innovation, technology, continuous improvement, community service and family. We believe that technology, like medicine, should be taken in the minimal effective dose. We also believe that the technology that we implement must protect your business, align with your business strategy and make life better for your customers and employees.

With 20 years of global business experience in large multinational corporations, Brad has served in a variety of roles including information technology, project management, global supply chain operations, and has worked with several non-profits. CMIT Solutions of Greensboro is backed with the national power of CMIT Solutions, with over 200 locations and 700 technical specialists nationwide.
