E.K. Yanney Award—E.K. Yanney was a banker from Lodgepole that was very active in economic development issues on a county-wide basis. He saw the need to make sure things in Sidney were progressive and growing, because it also affected all the other regional towns. He was very involved with the early day economic development groups such as Panhandle Growth Inc., and the High Plains Development Group, serving as president of both organizations. He was very active and support of the Cheyenne County Chamber of Commerce. It was his influence, along with John Egging, to give the Chamber a “County-wide” perspective, as opposed to just being know as a Sidney Chamber of Commerce.

Heroes Among Us — What is a hero? We understand not everyone can make a stunning rescue or stop a bank robbery, but there are unsung heroes in our community. Below are five different examples of heroes. Nominate your hero:

- Traditional heroes are described as individuals who show exceptional talent or who perform a single great moral action.
- Transparent heroes are defined as individuals who do their heroic work behind the scenes, outside the public spotlight.
- Transitional heroes are described as people whose heroism is unique to a particular developmental stage in our lives.
- Trending heroes are defined as individuals who are on a trajectory toward becoming heroes.
- Transitory heroes are described as people who perform a single non-moral action that bring them great momentary fame.
