Principle Advantage Government Relations Group

Angie Bezik started her political and public relations career as the Legislative Director for a member of the Virginia House of Delegates. After seven years, she was recruited by a prominent Richmond-based lobbying firm to run its Hampton Roads office. Combining her desire to own her firm with what she saw as a need for more boutique firms in Richmond, Angie founded Principle Advantage Government Relations Group.

Angie develops and implements successful strategies for legislation, budget items, and project coordination with an array of clients at the state and local level, including clients within the alternative/renewable energy, health, technology, and transportation sectors. She also represents local government and quasi-governmental authorities. Additionally, she works with businesses and organizations to develop strategic plans to enhance their profiles, missions, and branding by making introductions to appropriate businesses, government officials and staff, community leaders, and organizations.

Throughout her career, Angie has established solid relationships with local, state, and federal representatives, departments and agencies, and business leaders. She currently serves on the Executive Committee, Board of Trustees and HRBizPAC, as well as the Virginia Beach Board of the Hampton Roads Chamber of Commerce; the Executive Committee, Board of Directors, Legislative Committee and Programs Committee of Hampton Roads Association of Commercial Builders (HRACRE); the Legislative Affairs Committee of the Greater Williamsburg Chamber of Commerce; The Legislative Affairs Committee of the Virginia Peninsula Chamber of Commerce; and the Board of Directors of the Roanoke River Basin Association (RRBA).

In 2013, she was chosen to serve on Governor Terence R. McAuliffe's Technology Transition Team, and in 2017 was chosen to serve on Governor Ralph Northam's Commerce and Trade, Energy Workgroup. She served with distinction as a Board member and President of a 35-year old organization called Champions for Children: Prevent Child Abuse Hampton Roads.
