

David A. Goldberg
Partner

David Goldberg specializes in land use, real estate, cleantech, administrative law, and construction and architectural law. He received his J.D. from the University of Chicago, graduating with honors in 1999, and earned his B.A. in political science and economics from the University of California at Berkeley, graduating summa cum laude in 1996. Before joining Armbruster Goldsmith & Delvac LLP, David was a partner in the Environment, Land & Resources Department at Latham & Watkins LLP.

David's practice includes the whole range of land use law, including local planning and zoning regulations and related environmental matters; State land use regulations, including the California Environmental Quality Act, the California Coastal Act, the Community Redevelopment Law and the California Subdivision Map Act; the National Environmental Policy Act; and construction and architectural contracts. He has worked on a variety of major development projects across California and has extensive experience working with local jurisdictions and state, regional and federal agencies to secure regulatory approvals.

David is involved in a number of civic, community and charitable organizations, serving on the Board of Directors of the Valley Industry & Commerce Association and Temple Judea. He also is a frequent guest lecturer on land use and entitlement issues at the University of Southern California, and with CLE International, Lorman Education Services, and the Los Angeles County Bar Association.

David achieved prominence early in his career, demonstrated with his selection in 2006 by the Central City Association for the annual Mover and Shaker Award for his work on LA Live, and being named to the Southern California Super Lawyers "Rising Stars" list from 2006-2011.
