

Joe O'Reilly has served on numerous state and national committees and work groups focused on the effective use of data to propel educational progress. At the state level, he has served on the state assessment technical advisory committee, Arizona eLearning Task Force, Governor's P-20 Council of Arizona, Race to the Top Task Force, and chaired the No Child Left Behind/Title I Committee of Practitioners. At the national level, he has been vice president of the American Educational Research Association, president of the National Association of Test Directors and president of the Directors of Research & Evaluation.

He has also served as a reviewer of state assessment programs and No Child Left Behind accountability plans for the U.S. Department of Education. His work has been highlighted in Educational Research Service publications and won awards from Division H of the American Educational Research Association.