As part of its state and federal advocacy efforts, BIO is launching BIO ACTION. 2017 brings a lot of potential in the biotechnology industry, the potential of biotechnology to heal, fuel and feed the world has never been more promising – yet at the same time, some policymakers in Washington, D.C., and in our state capital are proposing ideas that could grind innovation to a halt.

That is why BIO is launching a new grassroots advocacy initiative called BIO ACTION. This advocacy program will keep you informed of emerging policy issues and threats to biotechnology innovation. BIO ACTION will ask for your voice when needed to encourage lawmakers to enact policies to further innovation and stop harmful policies from passing.

To learn about some of the issues BIO ACTION will be actively working on, please visit the BIO ACTION advocacy portal. Here you can also find the new BIO ACTION online tool that makes it easy for you to contact your federal, state and local public officials. Our voices must be HEARD - lend yours to help biotechnology heal, fuel and feed the world!

Please take a moment and help make the biotech industry's voice heard – join BIO ACTION!
