

October 13-15

Now more than ever, start-ups are playing a critical role in transforming the biotechnology landscape, developing new technologies to treat patients and to offer urgent answers to medical needs. Through investment and collaboration, BIO can support their mission and accelerate their innovations.

Join the BIO Investor Forum Digital, October 13-15, for three days of enhanced BIO One-on-One Partnering including:

- New! Integrated video conferencing for one-click access to partnering meetings.
- Access to a robust Company Directory; View the partnering company list.
- 24-hour meeting time slots for maximum flexibility across time zones.
- 150 outstanding outgoing meeting requests included for each company profile.
- Communicate directly with prospective investors, business development executives, or select service providers. Already, BIO is seeing increased global interest from investors including a16z, Aisling Capital, ARCH Venture Partners, Emerson Collective, Johnson & Johnson Development Corporation, New Enterprise Associates, Novo Ventures, Quan Capital, Taiho Ventures, Vivo Capital and more. View the list of participating investors.
- Connect with an engaged global community with delegates participating from more than 20 countries and counting.
- Sponsors receive elevated support and assistance. Learn how you can benefit from sponsorship.

Register today so you can log into the system early, set up your company profile, update your calendar availability, and start requesting and accepting meetings. The data shows that those who send meeting requests early schedule the most meetings.

Sam Taylor, President
North Carolina Biosciences Organization
P.O. Box 14354
Research Triangle Park, NC 27709
staylor@ncbioscience.net