NCBIO Wants you to know

Representing NC at BIO 2019

In two weeks, the most influential global leaders in biotechnology and pharma are meeting to discuss innovation, vaccines, gene therapy, digital health, and the 2019 global forecast. Join them at BIO 2019, June 3-6 in Philadelphia!

Art Pappas, managing partner of Pappas Capital, LLC will be on a panel discussing Biotech's Contribution to Innovation: Current and Future Drivers of Success on Tuesday, June 4th at 2:30 p.m.

The NC Biotechnology Center will be hosting the North Carolina Reception at the Barnes Foundation on Tuesday, June 4th from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Let NCBiotech know if you'd like to attend, and if there are business contacts that you'd like to invite.

On Wednesday, Sara Imhof, senior director for precision health, will moderate the panel "Innovative Models for Real World Evidence: Creating Value-Based Precision Health." Panel members include representatives of Optum, Vital Innovations and Alva10. Doug Edgeton, president and CEO, will serve on the NCBiotech-organized panel "Technology-Based Economic Development: Evolving Models, Strategies and Finance Approaches." The panel is moderated by Dan Berglund from SSTI.

NCBIO member, BioLink Life Sciences, will present on Thursday, June 6th at 11:30 a.m. in theater 2. They will highlight their patented phosphate binder, Phosveda(R), a treatment for the hyperphosphatemia of end-stage renal disease in adults. In addition, they will announce complementary products in late-stage development.

BIO One-on-One Partnering™ meeting scheduling is open. Learn more and register today!
