GOBA President-Elect

John Riddle is Vice President and partner at Turning Leaf Construction, LLC, where he is focused on the business development and marketing of the company, with special concentration in the Turning Leaf Custom Homes business unit. John has more than 25 years of professional marketing, relationship development, and sales experience with the past twelve years spent in the construction industry. He has earned the Certified Green Professional (CGP) designation through the National Association of Home Builders, Certifying Agent through the Florida Green Building Coalition, and is a LEED Accredited Professional (LEED AP) recognized by the US Green Building Council (USGBC). These designations have led to his leadership roles, serving as president of the USGBC Central Florida chapter and as an officer for the Greater Orlando Builders Association.

John leadership roles within GOBA started as a member of the Green Building Committee as an Associate member of the Metro Orlando HBA. This first experience as a committee member is the motivation that led to his participation on the Membership Committee and Parade of Homes Committee. After joining Turning Leaf Construction, he became a Builder member and continued his active participation in GOBA by earning positions on the Finance Committee and Parade of Homes Committee serving as Chair for each of those efforts. Beginning as the Treasurer and now as the Vice President, his role, participation, and understanding has diversified with many Board, committee, and task force responsibilities. It is this background of membership, events, Board, and leadership positions that, he believes, now positions him well to serve as President of GOBA and to continue the successes of GOBA for the benefit of our membership.
