This month, meet your 2019 FLF Clay Shoot Co-Chair, Taylor Mead

Taylor Mead is a senior project manager with Tower Electric and has been with the company since its inception in 2006. Taylor has over 20 total years of experience in the trade and has progressively worked his way through the ranks while at Tower. He started his career with Tower Electric as a foreman and effectively ran projects of various sizes and scopes. His breadth of project experience encompasses, among other things, hospitals, schools, retail space, and office space.

Taylor is a critical lynchpin in Tower’s success for a variety of reasons. He is responsible for communication with the general contractor, suppliers, and subcontractors on any given project. He is also in charge of the overall coordination and scheduling of his jobs and serves as a liaison between the office and the field. Taylor’s expertise and communication skills are an absolute necessity for a well-run project.

Outside of work, Taylor especially enjoys spending time with his wife and two sons. Not only does he coach his son’s baseball team, he also serves as his cub scout leader. Taylor additionally likes to travel, work on his house, watch college and professional football, and golf.
